

IMPORTANT EVIDENCE IS PRODUCED TODAY

STATE CONTINUES EXAMINATION OF WITNESSES IN BERGSTER-MAN MURDER CASE.

DR. GIBSON ON STAND

Physician Testifies That Goitre on Murdered Girl Did Not Cause Strangling—Other Testimony Today.

The examination of Dr. J. W. Gibson with regard to medical facts disclosed by the examination made by him and Dr. W. Edden of the body of Matilda Bergsterman, for whose murder Harry F. Berger and Edward Meyer are being tried in the circuit court, was the feature of the trial in the court this morning. Minute details of the examination of the body were called for by the counsel for the prosecution and the defense, as to the condition of the body when the examination was made on the morning after the woman met her death and subsequently when the physician gave a description of some length in answer to the questions put to him.

The most important part of his evidence, in addition to that already given in the inquest and the examination of the defendants, was concerning the condition of the thyroid gland in the neck, which the doctor testified was slightly diffused and produced a goitre, although he said that the affliction was hardly worth the name.

It was in this connection that he was most severely cross-examined by Thomas S. Nolan, attorney for the defense, who in his statement to the jury yesterday said he would endeavor to show this goitre was partly responsible for the suffocation of the woman.

A well known medical work was produced by the attorney and illustrations of goitre, showing that pressure had been exerted by it on the windpipe were shown to the doctor, but the physician denied that the goitre discovered in the examination of the corpse was sufficient to cause any pressure on the trachea, and that if any pressure had been exerted, it would have more likely been outward.

The use of a medical book to ask questions of the witness, however, was forbidden by the court, sustaining the objection of Attorney Charles Pierce, who is assisting District Attorney Stanley Dunwiddie. The court held that it was not trying the author of the book, and that the knowledge of the witness was not entirely the knowledge he had gained through a study of the book.

The doctor stoutly maintained through out all of the cross-questioning that the cases referred to in the medical work could not be applied to the case of Matilda Bergsterman, as conditions were not similar.

At noon, when a recess was taken until two o'clock, the cross-examination of Dr. Gibson had not been completed and the judge had just put a stop to a threatened wordy clash between Mr. Pierce and Mr. Nolan, and was listening to Mr. Nolan's arguments as to why he might not be allowed to continue his questioning.

The first action taken by the court this morning was to excuse until Monday afternoon at two o'clock all jurors who had been ordered to report today. When the trial was taken up, the first work was the completion of the testimony of Officer Peter Champion, after which Mrs. L. E. Conklin was called as a witness.

Her testimony, aside from that with regard to her visit to the Bergsterman home on October 1, was with regard to her acquaintance with Matilda Bergsterman, and what she had known of her character. Mrs. Conklin stated that the girl was odd, but as far as she knew Matilda Bergsterman had never kept company with any young men.

A discussion among the attorneys that threatened to grow heated was stopped by the court, when during the examination of Chief of Police Appleby, Attorney Thomas Nolan asked the question which the court produced the statement which the witness testified had been made to him by the defendants. The court asked for authority for the issuance of such an order, but the controversy was ended when Attorney Pierce stated that the statement had been on file among the papers of the inquest open to inspection, and the court ruled for order and the continuance of the proceedings.

The chief was questioned in this connection as to statements made in his testimony in the examination, particularly as to whether or not there had been a blood spot on the couch in the Bergsterman home before the body of Matilda Bergsterman had been laid on the couch by the officers.

The clothing worn by Matilda Bergsterman when her body was found, together with the coat and handkerchief found in the yard at the home, were brought into court today and the clothing taken from her body was identified by Undertaker H. Nelson, who was also one of the witnesses. He also identified a package of hair as that cut from the head of Matilda Bergsterman. He described the clothes she had worn with the stains on them, one an egg stain.

Dr. R. W. Edden, who examined the body of Matilda Bergsterman at her home, and with Dr. Gibson performed the autopsy at the Nelson undertaking rooms, was another witness in the trial this morning, but his testimony was brief, and was concerned mostly with the clothing worn by the woman and the first examination of the body, before the autopsy was performed.

Fred Bergsterman, father of Matilda Bergsterman, also was called to the stand, but the only testimony of any value that he gave was concerning the character and mental Strike Breakers Work at West Virginia Mines Under Protection Of Militia.

TROOPS GUARD MEN SENT TO END STRIKE

Charlesston, W. Va., Nov. 21.—Strike breakers were sent to a number of mines in the Kanawha coal fields today under guard of state troops. Cowed in some degree by the severity of the sentences imposed by the military court in the martial zone for infractions of the law and the orders of the commanding officer on two strikers yesterday the miners have refrained for the most part from continuing their acts of lawlessness. The patrol of the district by the national guard troops continued vigilant and further blood shed is unexpected.

EARTHQUAKE REPORT PERSISTS IN MEXICO

Rumor to Effect That 100 Were Killed In Shock Tuesday Gains Credence Today.

Mexico City, Nov. 21.—The report that the town of Acanday in the northern part of the state of Mexico was destroyed by Tuesday's earthquake was renewed today in El Oro and a number of doctors immediately proceeded to the scene. It is said that the victims numbered 100. The town had 20,000 inhabitants. Telegraphic communication is interrupted.

The cross examination of Dr. Gibson on technical medical points and with regard to testimony he offered in the examination was continued when court convened at two o'clock. After his testimony was completed, Dr. R. W. Edden was recalled to the stand and his testimony practically re-affirmed that of the other physician, as to the cause of death as suffocation, that there had been great bodily exertion before death, as shown by the damp clothing and as to the goiter was a good-sized one, as given in the examination, were read to the witness in cross-examination, but he re-affirmed his statement that the goiter was not a large one. The clothing taken from the dead woman's body by Dr. Edden when he made the examination, the ragged skirts, black bismirched waist, the corset, black with dirt, the dirty rag, served as an undergarment, the stockings and the sweater were shown to the physician.

TO TRY SWINDLERS AT FEBRUARY TERM

"Get Rich Quick" Artists Will Appear At United States Court at Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, Nov. 21.—The men arrested on the five indictments returned by the October federal grand jury and alleged by government officials to be members of a "get rich quick" ring of operators that has obtained between $500,000 and $1,500,000 from the public will face the United States district court here on the opening day of the February term. The bonds signed by the several men arrested provide for the appearance of the prisoners here at that time.

F. D. Minyard, formerly a broker here who was arrested in Cleveland Monday in the government raids of alleged "get-rich-quick" swindlers is expected by government officials to provide them with valuable information. Minyard was brought here today.

He declared he was penniless and intimated that he might tell of the operations of the men under indictment.

SAM SCHEPPS GIVEN HIS LIBERTY TODAY

One of Four Informers Against Becker And The Gunmen Released From Custody.

New York, Nov. 21.—Sam Schepps, one of the four informers whose testimony resulted in the conviction of Charles Becker and the four gunmen for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, was discharged from custody today. Webster, Vallon and Rose the other informers it is expected also will be given their freedom today.

MAY ASK LAND DEALERS TO GIVE STATE BOND.

Marshallfield, Nov. 21.—Land agents are much interested, and some of them much concerned over the efforts of the Wisconsin state board of immigration to secure the passage of a law which will require every land dealer to furnish bonds to the state. These bonds will be used by the state to refund to any settler the amount of which he may have been defrauded in any transaction with the bonded agents. Northern Wisconsin as well as the southern half is pretty well infested with "land sharks" in addition to the numerous reputable dealers.

FOUNDER OF CHICAGO GRAIN FIRM IS DEAD.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—W. J. Pope, founder of the firm of Pope, Eckhart & Company grain dealers died at his home in Winnetka, shortly after midnight. Mr. Pope had a wide acquaintance throughout the country. He was 75 years old.

MAXIMUM VALUE CLAUSE IN POLICIES NOT VALID

Madison, Nov. 21.—The clause in the fire insurance policies which seek to fix a maximum value on individual live stock by a blanket clause is not permissible, according to the opinion of the attorney general today to the insurance commissioner.

M'GOVERN PRAISES WORK OF THE BOARD OF PUBLIC AFFAIRS

Governor in An Interview Today Tells of What is Being Accomplished for Wisconsin Farmer.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 21.—That the State Board of Public Affairs is accomplishing a tremendous amount of good for the farmers of Wisconsin is the gist of an interview with Governor Francis F. McGovern today.

The governor declares that co-operation and rural credit banks have been powerful factors in the development of European countries; and believes that, with modifications, they can be introduced into Wisconsin, and announces that he is in favor of municipal markets and a reduction of the high cost of living.

"It will be impossible to discuss all of the investigations made by the State Board of Public Affairs, and now in progress under its direction," says Governor McGovern. "They are too numerous and far-reaching. Only a few, and those of a more general nature will be considered."

"Each legislature during the last decade has acted upon a number of important questions. Committees have been appointed and all new measures have been carefully discussed in committee meetings and before the two houses of the legislature. Very often, especially in later years, important bills have been considered by hold over committees and the report made and action taken at a subsequent session of the legislature. Each committee considered but one measure."

"The legislature of 1911 adopted a new policy. Instead of providing for the appointment of a separate committee to study and report on each question, it enumerated all the problems in one bill, and appointed one committee to consider them. This committee is known as the State Board of Public Affairs, and is made up of the governor, chairman; Senator Patton, vice chairman; Senator Sanborn, as chairman of the finance committee of the senate; Assemblyman Nye, as chairman of the finance committee of the house; Secretary of State Frank Hanchett; and Mr. Humphrey."

"The law creating the board enumerated several of the more pressing problems and asked the board to investigate them, and make its report. In addition to the questions definitely stated in the law, the committee was given very wide power of research along all lines of economic and social betterment. All of the problems of the state were to be considered, and the relation of each to all others was to be taken into account in the investigation and final report."

"The board, after a careful study of the field, decided that, among other questions, it would investigate co-operation, productive and distributive—credit banks, municipal markets, and the high cost of living."

"The co-operative movement is not a new one in Wisconsin. It began years ago with the Ripon Phenix, a communistic scheme. Since then its progress has been marked by numerous successes and failures. The causes of failure were varied, powerful and always present, and the elements of success few and feeble. It is true, individuals and small groups have been imbued with the idea that men can work together for the common good and move up the scale of general economic gain."

"These groups, however, contended with powerful forces, with jealousy, ignorance, individualism, short sighted policies, poor business methods, loose accounting systems, race prejudice, a floating population, the lack of proper community spirit, and a failure to understand the economic and social possibilities of co-operation. The natural result was numerous failures."

"In spite of all difficulties, Wisconsin has stood well to the front in the co-operative movement. Its co-operative cheese factories and creameries are numerous and successful. Its fruit growers' associations are a source of pride and profit. All of its present co-operative undertakings promise well."

"After a study of the movement abroad, we know that co-operation has been a powerful factor in the progress and development of every country in Europe where it has been tried. By means of it Denmark was slowly and gradually changed from a barren land of sand-dunes to one of the most productive countries in the world. Ireland was a land of misery, poverty, hopelessness and despair; but through co-operation it is now being slowly but surely transformed into a land of contentment, optimism and plenty. Other countries have derived similar benefits."

"It is true conditions in Wisconsin are different from those of Europe. The forces that compel men to co-operate are not so strong in Wisconsin as in Denmark; but they are present, and have brought about wonderful results in the form of co-operative creameries, cheese factories."

TURKS REJECT THE PEACE TERMS OF ALLIED POWERS

ANNOUNCEMENT IS MADE TODAY IN CONSTANTINOPLE AND PREPARATIONS FOR CONTINUATION OF WAR RESUMED.

WILL RESUME FIGHTING

Tales of Turkish Victories Near Their Capital Seems to be Enlarged Upon—Defense of Monastir Related.

Constantinople, Nov. 21.—The Ottoman government has rejected the terms offered by the allied Balkan nations. Nazim Pasha, the Turkish commander in chief has been ordered to resume operations.

The Terms.

Sofia, Nov. 21.—The terms for an armistice proposed by the Bulgarians were in no way in the nature of an ultimatum according to official circles here. It is open to the Turkish government to make counter proposals.

In order to guard against unreasonable delay the allies' proposals to the Turkish government were couched in such terms as easily to permit a resumption of hostilities although such contingency was considered unlikely.

There is a growing popular agitation here in favor of a triumphal entry into Constantinople by King Ferdinand and his army. Official opinion, however, is opposed to this as it is thought no sentimental considerations of victory could possibly outweigh the appalling danger of exposing to pestilence the troops exhausted by their strenuous campaign.

Tells of Battle.

London Eng., Nov. 21.—Reliable eye witnesses of the fighting on the Turkish front at Gallipoli report that it appears to have resulted in the Bulgarians retiring along the road from Papaz Burgas toward the village of Tchaldja according to the correspondent of the Daily News.

One report says they fell back ten miles. It appears, according to the correspondent doubtful whether the enthusiastic descriptions by the Turkish press of victory on the right wing are reliable. The Turkish losses here have been admittedly heavy, but the arrival of troops from Syria have further strengthened the Turkish defense.

Hope For Terms.

It also is evident that the supply and commissariat difficulties of the Ottoman army have been somewhat relieved. The conclusion is drawn at Constantinople that it should now be easier to arrange terms unless the Turkish military authorities make the mistake of supposing that a successful defense justifies defiance.

Tell of Defense.

Belgrade, Nov. 21.—In the defense of the Turkish fortress of Monastir the inhabitants of the city fought with great ferocity side by side with the Turkish regulars. They had been armed with rifles provided by the regular army. The brunt of the attack was borne by the Serbian infantry.

The men waded breast deep in the water of the surrounding marshes and took position after position by sheer dogged determination. The Turkish troops on Tuesday of this week made a last desperate effort to break through the cordon and in a measure succeeded.

Turks Fled.

The fighting was very severe and at the end the Turkish troops were absolutely beyond the control of their officers each man feeling the way he thought best. Most of them ran panic stricken toward Florina pursued by the Serbian cavalry. It is thought many of them fell into the hands of the Greeks advancing from Saloniki. The battle is described by some of the officers present as one of the bloodiest of the war.

France's Demands.

Paris, Nov. 21.—France today notified the Turkish government that she would hold Turkey responsible for any violence against Christians and asked her to adopt rigid measures to prevent any outbreaks. France took this step as fulfillment of her duty as the recognized protector of Christians in the Orient, and as a result of reports that massacres of Christians were possible in different parts of the Ottoman empire.

Turkish Report.

Constantinople, Nov. 21.—In an attack on the Turkish cruiser Hamidieh in the Black Sea this morning, two Bulgarian torpedo boats are asserted to have been sunk and two other torpedo boats badly battered. The Hamidieh is said to have escaped practically without damage.

Second Report.

Sofia, Nov. 21.—The Turkish cruiser Hamidieh, reported to have been near the port of Varna on the Black Sea. No confirmation of the report has been received by the war office.

Suffering of Turks.

Constantinople, Nov. 21.—The misery and suffering of the soldiers daily enacted in the Turkish cholora camps is reported as constantly. The correspondent of the Associated Press accompanied by secretary of the foreign embassy and Major Sorg, U. S. A. who is here on leave of absence paid the camp a visit today. Much skepticism prevails in Pera, the foreign quarters of Constantinople among the members of the troops and the foreign residents.

Figures Unreliable.

No one believes the figures given by the railroad employees and by those in contact with the Turkish army who declare that many thousands were stricken with cholera. No reliable figures were obtained from official sources in any of these which are regarded to be greatly exaggerated.

The camp is situated at the side

OTHER CHOLERA CAMPS.

San Sophia is not the worst cholera camp. At Hadenkent near the Tchaldja line cholera is still more extensive. How many victims there are is not known, but it is certain that there are many thousands and most of them are Anatolians who came from Asia Minor to fight for the defense of the Ottoman capital.

CHINA AND RUSSIA ON VERGE OF WAR?

Possession of Mongolia May Precipitate a Conflict According to Dispatches.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 21.—A cablegram was received from China by local Chinese announcing that the republic is preparing to go to war with Russia for the possession of Mongolia. The big secret society which fostered the recent revolution has been exchanging dispatches with Premier Yuan Shi Kai. The young Chinese association has opened a subscription list and lectures are being given in every town against the encroachments of the Russians in the infant Chinese territory. Dispatches have been received here by Yow Cook, secretary to Sung Chi Yui, secretary of state of Yuan Shi Kai's cabinet to the effect that an army of 60,000 has been mobilized in Peking and that General Wong Hing, the hero of the revolution, is leader. According to the report General Wong Hing has also ordered his army north to Mongolia with instructions to establish military rule and drive the Russian soldiers out.

DOGS ARE BEING USED FOR RUNNING DOWN DEER

Marshallfield, Nov. 21.—Returning hunters complain that dogs are being used to run down deer in many of the northern counties in open defiance of the state law. Game wardens are stated to be scarce.

FORMER WINNEBAGO COUNTY SHERIFF WEDDED RECENTLY

Oshkosh, Nov. 21.—The announcement is made today of the marriage of former Sheriff J. G. Ryner, and Miss Edna Faber which took place Nov. 14, and was kept a secret until now.

BOARD OF DEPOSITS MET AND APPROVED BANK BONDS

Madison, Nov. 21.—The state board of deposits met today and approved the following bonds passed by the attorney general: Bank of New Glarus, $30,000; Wisconsin state bank of Delavan, $50,000; Belview state bank, $50,000; State bank of DePere, $50,000; First National bank of Burlington, $100,000.

WILSON CARRIED KANSAS BY PLURALITY OF 23,507.

Topeka, Kansas, Nov. 21.—Woodrow Wilson carried Kansas by a plurality of 23,507 over Roosevelt. Taft was 45,000 behind Roosevelt.

DISCUSS SOCIALISM AT CHURCH MEETING

F. J. Lowth Gives Clear Exposition of Problem to Congregational Brotherhood.

Interesting aspects of one of the greatest movements of the present day were given by the speakers at the Congregational Brotherhood meeting last evening, in treating the topic, "Socialism." Arthur Fisher, leader of the discussion, introduced F. J. Lowth, H. C. Buell, and W. O. Newhouse as speakers, who dealt with the question comprehensively.

Mr. Lowth's paper showed much careful study of the program. After bringing out the fact that many were accustomed to belittle socialism without giving it thought or doing it a manifest injustice, he explained some of the important points involved in the movement. The common ownership of the materials of production, common management of property, equal distribution of income, and private ownership of property, were treated as some of the main features of socialism.

Mr. Lowth also gave some of the arguments in favor of socialism as a further means of explaining the meaning of the movement. While not advocating one side or the other, he pointed out that there are many good points which will aid materially in solving the relation of capital and labor.

WOULD PURCHASE THE HOME OF JEFFERSON

Janesville Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution Receives Petition for Signers.

There is a country wide movement for the purchase, by congress of Monticello, the old home of Thomas Jefferson and making it into a public museum to the public as is Mt. Vernon the home of George Washington. The movement has taken the shape of securing signatures to a monster petition to congress asking that the purchase be made and various chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution, all over the country have received copies of the petition with a view of securing signatures. One of these petitions is now in the hands of the regent of the local chapter of the D. A. R. and Janesville residents will be given an opportunity to join in the hundreds of thousands of persons who are most anxious to have this historic spot preserved for future generations to visit. The petition which was received in Janesville will find many ready signers when presented by the ladies interested in the cause.

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL CLASSES WILL MEET

Seven to Begin Regular Sessions This Evening—Four More if Enrollment Increases.

Evening industrial school classes in dressmaking, sewing, salesmanship, shorthand and typewriting, bookkeeping and penmanship, mechanical drawing and English for foreigners will hold their first regular meeting at the high school building this evening, and all who have enrolled should be sure to attend. Two more will have to enroll for the cooking course if it is to be given, six more in the millinery class and four more in commercial arithmetic. There are not enough for separate classes in electricity and gasoline engines but it may be possible to combine the two. Those who have decided to enroll in these courses should report tonight. Sixteen have enrolled in the course of reading for foreigners.

DEATH CALLED WIFE OF FORMER RESIDENT

Mrs. Frank M. Bostwick Died in Philadelphia After Long Illness.

Word has been received by relatives of the death of Mrs. Frank M. Bostwick, wife of Commodore F. M. Bostwick, U. S. N., at Philadelphia. Mrs. Bostwick had been sick for several months and her death was not entirely unexpected. She has visited Janesville on several occasions and will be remembered by friends of Mr. Bostwick. Commodore Bostwick is the son of the late J. M. Bostwick and his many friends here will extend their kindest sympathy. Besides her husband, Mrs. Bostwick leaves two daughters: Mrs. Robert Carney, and Mrs. F. Brooks Upham.

Ida Ruth, Miss Ida Ruth died last night at the home of L. C. Newton, near the village of Avalon. She was thirty-two years old and had lived in this state but one year, coming from her home in the state of New York. Surviving her are her mother, father, and sister, all residing at Newtonville, New York. Her remains will be sent to that place for burial.

Ormond N. Dutton, Funeral services for Ormond N. Dutton will be held at the home, five miles north of the city, at two o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Elder W. A. McDowell of Bristol, Ill., will officiate.

MOTOR FIRE APPARATUS MEN CALL ON OFFICERS

Representative of Victor Motor Truck Company in City Today—Sees Chief and Council.

Chief of the Fire Department H. C. Klein and the city council are receiving frequent calls from representatives of companies manufacturing motor-propelled fire-fighting apparatus and also descriptive literature. Mr. Cadwell, representing the Automatic Fire Extinguisher company of Chicago, was here today in the interest of the Victor Motor Truck company. The Stogeman company has mailed a large photograph of the new squad car of the Milwaukee fire department, manufactured by them. This recently made a successful test run to Racine and back. The Velio Motor Car company, which recently sold a combination chemical, hose, and ladder wagon to the city of Moline, has also mailed descriptive literature. Many are prepared to sell the city fire apparatus built on touring car running gear, but this is not what the city wants.

clan by the attorney for the defense and identified. The glass taken from the woman's hair was also produced today by the attorney for the defense.

Dr. J. F. Pember was the next expert witness called, he taking the stand at three o'clock. His opinion, given after the reading of the facts, brought out in the testimony as to the condition of the woman's body, substantiated that of the other doctors, as due to suffocation.

The crowd this afternoon was larger than has been attending the trial previously. The defendants, too, showed more emotion than before, perhaps due to the fact that behind them sat their mothers, both of whom showed plainly the sorrow which has fallen upon them.

Other witnesses summoned for today, who may be called before proceedings are suspended, are: Dr. Helm of Beloit, Mrs. Harry Brown, Mrs. Fred Smith, Mrs. Thomas Eaden, and Miss Belle MacLean of this city.

The jury returned from its trip to the Bergsterman home yesterday afternoon at four o'clock, and after the court had convened again, the state called its first witness, L. E. Conklin, to whom Fritz Bergsterman first told the news of Matilda Bergsterman's death. He was examined as to the events of the morning following the death of the girl and his visit to the Bergsterman home and particularly with reference to his investigation inside and outside the house while Officer Champion was there. Minute details of his investigation were brought out as to the inspection of the upper part of the house, the bed, which he said he thought had been occupied the night before; the old tray of a trunk which fell out of the stairway when the door was opened, and the spot on the floor, not yet dry, where eggs had been broken. Blue-prints of the house, interior and exterior, were introduced as evidence by the state, and the witness pointed out the places where the coat and handkerchief, and other articles were found.

Officer Peter Champion was the second witness for the state, his testimony being practically the same as what he had told in the request and examination of the defendants Meyer and Berger. He testified to the finding of the hair produced in the examination, which was introduced as evidence in the trial yesterday, and to pointing out for City Engineer C. V. Kerch, who made the blue-prints, the various places indicated as to the relative position of the coat, handkerchief and other articles. Cross-examination of the witness had not been completed when the court ordered a recess taken until morning.

Instructions were issued to the jury as to their conduct while sitting in the trial and Sheriff Ransom and Deputy Sheriffs John Comstock and C. W. Shmei were sworn to see that the twelve men were kept together at all times while out of the court room and to see that they observed all the rules announced by the court. Arrangements were made last night so that they might attend the performance of "The Little Rebel" at the opera house.

In their opening statements to the jury yesterday afternoon, the attorneys for prosecution and defense outlined their cases to the jury. The state, through District Attorney Stanley Dunwiddie and Attorney Charles Pierce, who is assisting him, will endeavor to prove that the defendants are guilty of a criminal assault upon the Bergsterman girl, which resulted in her death, and that she was taken from the house by the defendants to make the assault. Attorney Nolan, on the other hand, will attempt to show that no assault was made, the attack being made with the woman's consent, and that she was afflicted with a gottre, which under the excitement caused by the attack, suffocated her. He will also try to prove that she was of loose moral character, while the young men came of good families and bore a good reputation, but were under the influence of liquor when the attack was made.

Away From Dust of Autos.

The increase of motoring and the consequent increase of dust have, to some considerable extent, changed the value of villa and hotel sites in visitors' resorts. The choice, especially in the south of France and Italy, is now much in favor of houses well away from the main road, and even well outside towns.

WILSON'S DAUGHTER HAS TASTE FOR ART

Eleanor Wilson, Mrs. Woodrow Wilson spoke intimately of her girls in an interview recently. "Eleanor," she said, "is an artist. She is now studying at the Academy of Fine Arts in Philadelphia. She has been there for two years, and her instructors say she shows great talent. Her work is not at all feminine in touch, it is strong and virile, and we hope some day that she will be an illustrator. Margaret inherited her father's voice but they say that Nellie inherited my talent for painting."

BOWELS BAD, LIVER TORPID? CASCARETS

If Constipated, Bilious, Headachy, Stomach Sour, Get a 10 cent Box of Cascarets—Take one Tonight

You men and women who can't get feeling right—who have headache, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath, dizziness, can't sleep, are bilious, nervous and upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach, or have backache and feel worn out. This is important.

Are you keeping your bowels clean with Cascarets, or merely forcing a passage way every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets work while you sleep; cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poison in the intestines and bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box from any drug store will keep your stomach sweet; liver and bowels regulated—never gripe or sicken. Clear and head clear for months. Don't forget the children. They love Cascarets because they taste good—do

MRS. WORRY.

BY C. A. VOIGHT.

Miller Higgins, the new manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, is anxious to secure Johnny Kling of Boston to take Bresnahan's place on the catching staff next season. He may get Kling, as Manager Stallings of the Braves does not propose to carry him another season. It is rumored that McGraw, Dooin and Clarke are also after the Boston catcher.

Judge McCredie, owner of the Portland teams in the Pacific Coast and Northwestern leagues, announces that both teams will train in California again next spring. The Northwesterns probably will be at Sacramento and the Coasters at Santa Maria, farther south.

Johnny Coulon, American bantam champion, will have another chance with Kid Williams of Baltimore on December 17 at New York. The go will be for ten rounds. Williams laid it over Coulon last month, but the champion insists that the trick can't be turned again. Coulon also has signed articles to box at the Forty-fourth street Sporting club on December 6, and the management is trying to induce Charles Ledoux, the Frenchman, to meet him on that occasion.

"With Heine Wagner off the Boston team we would have won the championship," recently declared Manager McGraw of the New York Giants. "Baseball is a cold proposition to me, and I always believe in giving credit where it is due. Wagner is the fellow that beat us. With him out of the way, we would have been the winners. He played such a marvelous

OSHKOSH WILL MEET JANESVILLE ELEVEN TO DECIDE HONORS

Northern School Recognizes Janesville As Only Other Contender For Title And Arranges Game There Thanks-giving.

"Defeat Oshkosh" is now the slogan in the local football camp. The students are wild over the coming game, at Oshkosh on Thanksgiving Day, which will settle the high school championship of the state. The game was arranged last night, by telephone, and this morning the written agreement was received in the form of a night letter. The team, together with Coach Curtis, are over-joyed, now that their claim is recognized, and they are undisputed champions of Southern Wisconsin, Madison having refused to play. It is the first time in years that Janesville have been reckoned with in the finals, and a victory must be secured. As no game will be played Saturday, the locals will be content with the next five nights in hard scrimmage, in preparation for their hardest game of the year. The team deserves this game, and with the exception of a few ragged holes in the line, which will be patched up before Wednesday they should stand a good show in downing the lumberjacks of the north.

Oshkosh has agreed to pay all expenses for 16 men and lodging over night. The locals will have to leave on Wednesday noon of next week, and return sometime on Friday. When they leave, on the Northwestern railroad, a rousing sendoff will be the cry, and a victory for the locals.

The Janesville line must take on new life if they expect to stop the attack of the northmen. While the line is not at all bad some additional strength must be shown in defensive work. Haumerson, will undoubtedly be on hand during the remainder of practice, to give them drill and tactics in charging. Coach Curtis will tend to the backfield. The backfield is up to snuff and should make a good showing against Oshkosh if the line can hold. Captain Connell is confident that the locals can hold the fast team from the north, even if they cannot win. However Janesville will enter the game with do or die spirit to keep up the fine record of the Janesville High. The Oshkosh team are without a doubt the strongest team in the state. They boast of not being defeated as yet, and the locals are out to get their scalp, and to bring home the flag of champions of the state. If the locals are defeated, it will only be a matter of the best team winning, for both teams will enter the game in fine condition. Madison will have to be content with claiming nothing but a successful season, as they have no claim to fielding game that it was a big block to us.

Cornell has had the worst football season this year in its history. It hasn't won a single important game and was even decisively defeated by the weak Michigan eleven. About the middle of the season the University of Pennsylvania looked hopeless, but by defeating Michigan and the strong Carlisle Indians the Quakers have in the last two games won back much of their lost prestige.

A movement has been started which will, if successful, result in a new conference in colleges and universities in the middle west. Notre Dame, Marquette and Wabash have been named as the charter members, with the possible inclusion of the Michigan Agricultural college and Lawrence University. The plan is for six or eight institutions to make up the conference, the official existence of which will begin with the 1913 football season.

The season of 1912 doubtless was the greatest in the history of light harness racing. Baden was the champion of the Grand Circuit meetings, winning $36,500, the largest sum ever won in one season by a trotter or pacer.

The yearlings performed sensationally, establishing many records. Twenty-one of the youngsters made records under 2:30; in twenty-two years previously only thirty-two yearlings beat 2:30. A new world's record for yearlings was established by Aldale, a brother of Lord Allen. He reduced the record from 2:19 to 2:15 2/4.

PLAN TO ORGANIZE BASKETBALL LEAGUE

Meeting Of Representatives Of Schools In This Section Will Be Held Here Saturday.

There will be a meeting at the high school Saturday afternoon of this week, for the purpose of organizing a basketball league in this part of the state. It is expected that eight or more coaches from the leading high schools in this section will be on hand, to establish in what is known as the Rock County Basketball League. This league will be run on a percentage basis. The team having the highest percent at the end of the season will be champions of the league, and will represent this section of the state in the state tournament to be held next spring at Appleton. Other leagues throughout the state will undoubtedly be formed, which will do away with many teams annually claiming a chance for the title. Only the teams heading the leagues will be given a chance to fight it out at the finals. Prof. Walte, of Jefferson is at the head of the league, and much interest will be taken in its establishment. A report of the meeting will be given later.

HARVARD PREPARES FOR YALE BATTLE; STORRER ONE OF CRIMSON STARS

Harvard coaches are this week putting the final touches on the Crimson eleven in preparation for the great battle with Yale on Saturday. The performance of the Harvard team in the Dartmouth game last Saturday was not satisfactory to the coaches. Coach Irish says the men have gone back since the Princeton game, while the others have various faults to find with the players individually and collectively.

Storror, left tackle, is expected to star in the Princeton game. Charley Brickley's toe may save the day, just as it did in the Dartmouth contest. Much is expected also from Sam Felton and Captain Wendell.

Too Many Babies Born?
Can we not see, right here in our own surroundings, that altogether too many babies are born now? Better by far fewer babies, and these well fed, well clothed, well cared for physically, morally and mentally—if we would expect a strong, hardy race. If race suicide is ever checked it will not be by bringing into the world ill-fed, poorly clothed, worse fathered children, but rather by well-directed efforts to save the children who die unnecessarily.—Dr. George T. My commission expires July 12, 1914.

NOT GREAT LEADERS.

Horace Greeley once said that: Editors can only follow where the people's heart is already prepared to go with them. They can direct and animate a healthy public indignation, but not "create a soul between the ribs of death."

The old gentleman knew what he was talking about, and the sentiment expressed is just as true today as it was half a century ago. The mission of a newspaper is to disseminate the news, free from bias or expression of opinion, and when this task is faithfully and intelligently performed its constituency is satisfied.

The editorial page may or may not be of consequence. It is read the least of any part of the paper, and has but little influence with the reading public. People like to do their own thinking and very naturally resent any attempt at dictation.

The paper, however, is supposed to stand for something, in the community where it is published, and this something, whatever it may be, finds expression through the editorial page. It is expected to be public-spirited, and to encourage a spirit of enterprise. It is demanded that it be clean and wholesome, and ever ready to advance every good work along the lines of public morality.

Mr. Greeley lived in an age when the editor overshadowed his publication, but that day has long since passed, and aside from Henry Watterson of the Louisville Courier-Journal, and Arthur Brisbane of the Hearst publications, the reading public has but little knowledge of editorial writers.

This is as it should be because the publication and not the individual is held accountable for its utterances. Writers come and go, but their mediums for expressing thought go on through the generations, and if a straight-forward, well-defined policy is adopted and pursued, they become in time a recognized force in the community where published, or in the larger field where they circulate.

The men who are in the publishing business today, are not seeking personal popularity. They are content if the product turned out satisfies the constituency which they serve, and if interested in the best welfare of the community, they seek by suggestion and argument to better conditions along many lines.

This is the position which the Gazette occupies in the field where it has circulated for half a century or more. Experience has demonstrated that public sentiment on many questions can not be largely influenced through the press, yet it is possible to arouse indifference and lethargy, and stimulate thought along right lines.

This is what the paper is attempting to do, in the crusade against vice which is now going on, not in a spirit of dictation, but prompted by an earnest desire to better conditions. The columns of the paper are open to the free discussion of topics which are just now of absorbing interest, and if you have anything to say to the reading public, don't hesitate to use them. The Gazette is in position to put your thoughts before the people, and if good results are to be obtained, a union of effort is necessary.

A CORRECTION.
The Wisconsin Highway Commission has issued a circular containing the following statement, which has had wide circulation:

"The first state road to be built in Manitowoc county has just been completed at Two Rivers. The stretch covers about one mile on the Two Rivers-Mishicot road. The county, state and township aid amounted to $15,000, and the value of the investment is proving self-evident. At a recent election, additional state aid has been voted and a continuation of the work between Two Rivers and Manitowoc and Mishicot promises good roads for the entire county."

In commenting the Commission says: "The figures given are so inaccurate that it tends to produce a very unfair conception of costs. As a matter of fact, the piece of road mentioned was built at a cost of less than $1,500, and was completed for a distance of 3,600 feet, this being at a cost of $2,200 per mile. The average for all of the stone roads built in the state this year, including grading and culvert work, will not exceed $3,000."

State aid for public highways has been the subject of more or less criticism, but prejudice is being overcome, to large extent, and the time will come when road building will be supervised by the state, as it should be.

The hap-hazard methods now employed are far from satisfactory, and the people are entitled for value received for their investments. This can only be secured through scientific knowledge, and this the state is prepared to furnish.

"Strictly fresh" eggs sold today for 72 cents a dozen, retail, one of the highest prices ever received for them in this city. Western laid eggs were quoted from 10 to 15 cents a dozen under this price, while storage eggs went begging at 24 cents. These quotations are from the New York market, a day or two ago. With eggs at six cents a throw how long would it take an ordinary fifty-cent hen to pay for herself?

Football tragedies are of daily occurrence, but they appear to detract nothing from the popularity of the game. A prize ring is called brutal, and a bull-fight is not tolerated, but the victims of football are soon forgotten, and the game goes on. It may be a good educator, but not very consoling to the friends of the departed.

In spite of dire predictions, the seasons come and go with monotonous regularity. The oldest inhabitant says that he never saw such a November, but he has simply forgotten. Good weather, like honesty, is so common.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

PRETENDING.
Takin' our chances as they come along And when they ain't pretendin' they are good.

Ever watch children when they were pretending? What delight they have in playing grownups! The little boys pretend they are Indians or soldiers or cowboys. The little girls pretend at keeping house and that the doll is a baby, and they make and receive calls like their elders.

Well, we are all children—Children a little larger grown. Can't we also get some happiness out of pretending?

Why not make a virtue of necessity and, when the chances do not come along, go ahead, pretending that they do?

Pretense may prove valuable. Do you remember about the poor little marchioness who discovered that orange peel, water and sugar would make a pretty fair wine if she pretended? She got a lot of comfort out of the make believe.

There's virtue in assumption. The so-called "new thought" is largely built upon assumption or suggestion. You suggest to yourself that you are in the enjoyment of good health. You continue to assert the fact until the assumption is a fact. You assume you are prosperous. You persist in that assumption. You thus adopt the optimistic state of mind that brings prosperity.

Assume a virtue if you have it not. "As a man thinketh in his heart so is he." If he thinks himself mean he will be mean. If he thinks himself virtuous he is apt to be.

Pretending to be happy is more likely to produce happiness than to suggest to yourself that you are unhappy. The children have discovered that.

Tolerance of a bad situation and the determination to keep sweet through it all have pulled many a mortal out of the slough of despond.

I know a mother who tells her children they are the best children in the neighborhood. Those children, in fact, are perceptibly better than those whose mothers tell them they are naughty.

Nothing helps like approval.

And approval of oneself goes a long way toward accomplishment.

Difficult? Yes, at first. It is difficult to pretend that you are happy when you are not or that things are good when they seem to be bad. But—The optimistic view will change the complexion of things if anything will. Certainly the pessimistic view will make them worse.

Let us pretend the chance will come to us.

And probably it will.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By ROY K. MOULTON.

The Way of Riches.
Myrilla was a serious girl Who had her youth and health, But like a lot of others, she Was rather shy of wealth. She labored in the rank and file, She had no line to speak, She was one of the mob and got Just twenty bones per week.

She practiced night and day upon A new and fancy dance, She had invented it herself; At last she got a chance To try it out in vaudeville. It wasn't very nice, So managers made bids on it And boosted up the price.

The papers knocked her little dance And said it was not fit, It was indecent, so they said, There was no doubt of it. Five thousand bones a week she got And she was made a star, She owns a chateau by the sea And a hundred horsepower car.

She's got a splendid rope of pearls And diamonds by the pound, All gifts from princes, dukes and earls Who keep a-hangin' round. She's got to quit the dancing game And tackle the legit. Ambition calls for Shakespeare now, Sure! she will make a hit.

From the Hickeyville Clarion.
Mr. Amos Pringle, the eminent horticulturalist, has invented a system whereby his peach trees cannot be killed by frost during the severe winter months. He will build a large hothouse on his farm and in the fall he will dig up all of his peach trees and transplant them in the hothouse, all moving them back in the spring. He has figured that it will take only $19 tons of coal to keep the hothouse warm during the winter months and this, of course, is a mere bagatelle. Inasmuch as the peach crop is ripped not only once but generally eight or ten times during the winter and spring, it would seem as though Mr. Pringle's suggestion might be universally adopted with very beneficial results. Mr. Pringle's plans are most completed and he expects to have everything planned within a month or two if his paper holds out.

Anson Frisby, our local financial magnate, is playing golf for his health at this writing. It is the first time he ever did anything for his health around here. Miss Amy Pringle is the best waltzer in this town and she ought to be because she is a daughter of the Revolution. Constable Extra Hand has appeared on our streets with a new pair of felt boots and arctic. Let the improvement go on. Grandma Perkins who has been at the point of death for nine years is digging a drain on the Anson Jackson place and expects to have it done before snow flies. Those who are in arrears to this paper, whose names is legion, will please call and settle as coin is quite scarce at this writing. Ye editor needs a new pair of pants as the ones he used to have were stole off from him by a hack driver at Niagara Falls and he had to come home in one of Mrs. Yea's skirts which is all right for travelling purposes, but is rather awkward to work in around the office. Come one, come one, around the office. Come one, come one, around the office.

Woman's Sense of Honor.
On this point women are still not entirely in agreement. "Sense of honor" said one young woman to whom the question was brought up: "Women's sense of honor? They haven't any." On the other hand, an older lady—one who is wise through long and sweet living—answered, "Sense of honor? Of course women have it—as high as any man's. Only—I should want to choose my woman." Where, then, does the truth lie?—Atlantic.

Where Thought Is Deadly.
"It is much worse," said an old English physician, "to have nothing the matter and think that one has something the matter than to have something really the matter."

AN OLD REMEDY

Beef, Iron and Wine is one of the good old remedies that has outlived a score of patent tonics, reasonable in price, a satisfactory tonic, appetizer and mild stimulant. There is nothing better for that tired, worried, listless feeling or run-down condition of the system after illness of any kind. It tones the whole system, stimulates digestion, gives you appetite, is a good iron tonic for weak, pale children or old people, far more effective than malt extracts or so-called wine of cod liver oil that depend upon their stimulants alone. Beef, Iron and Wine tones and sustains, it assists nature to recuperate, it's a food to the sick and nursing mothers.

Mr. Pfennig, our Graduate Pharmacist and Chemist, prepares our Beef, Iron and Wine. It's always fresh, made from the very best extract of beef, wholesome, properly aged sherry wine and soluble iron.

We don't sell ready-made, hand-made, factory-manufactured Beef, Iron and Wine. We believe and know that medicine should be compounded only by the experienced and scientifically trained.

Try a bottle of our Beef, Iron and Wine as made by Mr. Pfennig, for a full trial. Note its wholesome taste and invigorating effect. You will be more than satisfied. Get it at the Badger Drug Co., Milwaukee and River Sts. The drug store that makes a specialty of drugs.

It is believed that when congress convenes again early in December President Taft will nominate Dr. R. E. Doolittle to succeed Dr. Harvey W. Wiley as chief of the bureau of chemistry. Wiley resigned last spring and since then Dr. Doolittle has been acting temporarily as bureau chief. His work has given satisfaction.

WEDS FARMER AGED 42.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Manitowoc, Wisconsin, Nov. 21.—December weddings are not unusual but Manitowoc has contributed a few to the list. One of the marriages here in which the difference in ages is marked being that of Antoine Hager a well-to-do Cooperstown farmer and Miss Julia Herman of this city. Hager is forty-two and Miss Herman seventeen, according to the state-ments made to the license clerk. The girl's parents had to appear to give consent to the marriage. Hager is said to be an old friend of the Herman family.

Plan To Do Your Christmas Shopping Early:

Two very important results from early Christmas shopping. First, you serve your own interests so much better, there's greater variety to choose from the goods are fresher, there's less inconvenience, there's less jostling and elbowing now than later on. There's much that will profit you personally in early shopping. Secondly, you can do a world of good to employees—all along the line, by shopping early; you can lighten the labors of all, for which they would be sincerely grateful to you. So with a trifle of forethought you can serve two factors—employee and yourself.

GETS WEALTH JUST BEFORE HYDE TRIAL

Mrs. B. C. Hyde.

Just two months before the date set for the third trial of Dr. B. C. Hyde, of Kansas City, Mo., charged with the murder of Colonel Swope, millionaire philanthropist, Hyde's wife received a share of Swope's wealth. She was given property from the estate valued at $18,000. Hyde is charged with having murdered Swope in order that his wife might get a share of Swope's property. He has had two trials on this charge, and will be tried for the third time early in January.

WEDDING SOLEMNIZED YESTERDAY MORNING

Miss Eleanor McBride of Harmony, United in Marriage to James Healy of Beaver Dam at St. Mary's Church.

Solemn high nuptial mass was celebrated at St. Mary's church yesterday morning at nine o'clock for the marriage of Miss Eleanor McBride of the town of Harmony to James T. Healy of Beaver Dam. Rev. Fr. Williams A. Goebel acting as celebrant. Mr. C. F. McBride of the Cathedral parish of Milwaukee, an uncle of the bride as deacon and Fr. O'Hearn of St. Francis Seminary, Milwaukee, as sub-deacon. The couple were united in marriage by the Rev. Fr. C. F. McBride. Miss Mae McBride, a sister of the bride was bridesmaid, and John Healy of Beaver Dam, acted as best man. The bride was attired in a handsome gown of white chamoisee satin and carried a beautiful shower bouquet of bride's roses. The bridesmaid was dressed in blue voile. St. Cecilia's male choir gave the song service. Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served and a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John McBride in the town of Harmony. Mr. and Mrs. Healy left yesterday on a brief wedding trip, after which they will make their home in Beaver Dam. The bride is well known in Janesville and vicinity in Beaver Dam, where for two years past she taught in the public schools. The groom is a prominent lawyer of Beaver Dam. Among the guests from out of town who were here for the wedding were: Mrs. Welch and the Misses Rose and Agnes Welch of Beaver Dam.

DARE DEVIL JUMPS 500 FEET FOR $1,000

Dare Devil Redman Law.

One of the biggest dare devils of aviation is Redman Law, whose recent feat of parachuting into the Hudson river from a balloon which he descended while 500 feet up in the air has few parallels in the history of ballooning. For 200 feet he dropped like a shot, then the big parachute to which he held on unfolded, and deposited him in the river. For this feat Law received a prize of $1,000.

PERFECTS MACHINE FOR TOPPING BEETS

J. H. Huntress of This City Claims Invention of Labor Saving Machine For Use in Beet Fields.

After six years of work J. H. Huntress of this city claims that he has perfected a machine which will dig and top sugar beets thus effecting a great saving in the cost of harvesting this crop. A team of horses is the power required. Prongs plow out the beet which is elevated to a platform where the top is cut off and the beet is deposited in the furrow behind the machine. Mr. Huntress exhibited a basket of beets which were cleanly topped and in perfect condition for delivery. He claims the machine is working to his entire satisfaction and he is making application for a patent.

On Friday evening the subject will be, "Rescuing the Perishing." On Friday afternoon he will have a meeting at 3 o'clock for women only.

Peculiar Inscription.

Not many years ago, in the Temple Court, London, was a sun dial with the motto: "Be gone about your business." This unusual inscription arose from the "builder's man" calling to receive orders about it, when the benchman in charge was so busy that he did not listen, but said: "Be gone about your business," which the man took as his answer and forthwith engraved.

Men Need Help—Not Charity.

There is a higher duty than to build almshouses for the poor, and that is to save men from being degraded to the blighting influence of an almshouse. Man has a right to something more than bread to keep him from starving. He has a right to the aids and encouragements and culture, by which he may fulfill the destiny of a man, and until society is brought to recognize and reverence this it will continue to groan under its present miseries.—Channing.

Will Preserve Aged Tree.

On the Canandaigua lake shore highway, at Tioheron Springs, stands a venerable tree, which, experts declare, is not less than eight hundred years old. Recently improvements at this point were begun, which, it was thought, would necessitate its removal, but in response to popular protest the highway commission has decided to let it stand.—Waterloo (N. Y.) Observer.

"HIS RISE TO POWER" STARTS ON SATURDAY

Gazette's New Serial Full of Interest Just At This Particular Time.

When Henry Russell Miller wrote the story of "His Rise to Power" he had in mind some one particular statesman of this day and age. The readers of this tale, which starts in next Saturday's Gazette, can judge for themselves who it meant. Just at this time with the democratic office-seekers swarming on Washington, with big deals being made behind closed doors, the political intrigue of the story will be most entertaining. Be sure and watch for the first chapter.

ies, cow testing associations and numerous other organizations of a similar nature. The past history of the movement indicates very clearly that co-operation is strong in Wisconsin. The state let this movement go on without aid and assistance on its part, and have its course marked with failure after failure; or will it lend a helping hand, and see that every co-operative organization in the state has the advantage of the experience of every other organization of a similar nature regardless of location.

The State Board of Public Affairs is not encouraging the organization of co-operative societies, it simply recognizes co-operation as a great force working in the state of Wisconsin, and is attempting to aid the farmers when organized. The hundreds of inquiries received in the office of the State Board of Public Affairs prove conclusively that people are interested in co-operation, and are in need of assistance along these lines. And that they are seeking information from every source. If information will enable the farmers to stave off failure as it has done in Denmark and Ireland; then it is the duty of the state to furnish it.

"Co-operative credit is another question that the State Board of Public Affairs has had under consideration.

"The International Institute of Agriculture at Rome has made a very careful study of co-operative credit in all the leading European countries. America's able representative, David Lubin, has done much to spread the idea in this country.

"Co-operative credit as a means of aiding the progress and development of the nation has attracted the attention of the bankers, and the question has been discussed at nearly all of their state association meetings during the last year. They have also sent delegations abroad to study the problem in Germany and other continental countries, with a view to adopting it in America, if such action seems wise.

"The Southern Commercial Congress, conscious of the backwardness of the south, has organized a great movement to promote co-operative credit. The south sees in it a means of building up that section of the country agriculturally and financially. Their motto is: "A Greater Nation Through a Greater South." And the foundation upon which this Greater South is to rest is co-operative credit. This Southern Commercial Congress has planned, and is now working for a representative delegation to be sent abroad in 1913. Unless something unforeseen happens, this delegation will go abroad and bring back to America the best thought of the continent on co-operative credit associations.

"The president of the United States, through the Department of State, has drawn upon all the members of the consular service for information upon rural credit. The results of this investigation have convinced him of the wisdom of the movement, and he is urging the governors of all states to give it serious consideration as a means of encouraging agricultural advancement.

"All the leading political parties have introduced this plank in their platforms and pledged themselves to investigate the subject.

"The state of Wisconsin has not been neglectful of her agricultural interests. As soon as the State Board of Public Affairs was organized, it decided that co-operative credit was one of the problems, the solution of which promised great things for the farmers. After careful investigation, we have been impressed with the wonderful results that rural credit banks have brought about in Germany and other European countries, and we feel that the idea, with modifications, can be adopted in Wisconsin.

"We realize, however, that although Wisconsin is the greatest German state in the union, conditions here are not the same as in Germany, and that co-operative credit banks cannot be introduced into Wisconsin without modifications. We do believe that if properly safe-guarded, sanely and conservatively managed, they will be a great aid to the agricultural development of this state. Cheaper credit on longer terms will give the farmers power to obtain more of all three factors of production—land, labor and capital. This will tend materially to increase the agricultural production of the state.

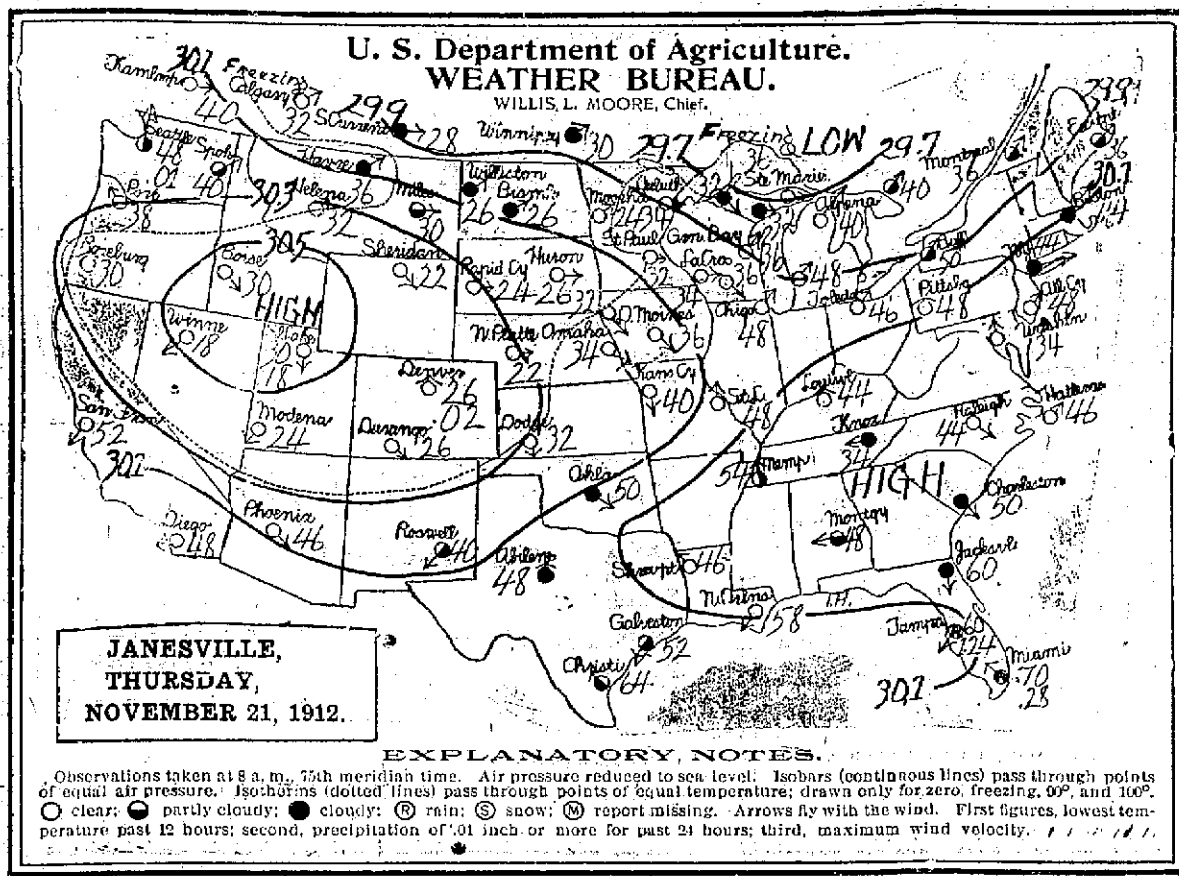

"This board, in conjunction with the Legislative Reference Department, has also made an investigation of municipal markets in America to ascertain, if possible, their benefits and possibilities as a factor in reducing the high cost of living. The result of this investigation has been published in the form of a bulletin now ready for distribution. The municipal market, if properly regulated, brings the producer and consumer face to face and insures keen and open competition.

"The cost of living is a problem that touches the pocketbook of every American. We are no longer interested in the question of whether or not the cost of living has increased. We know it has increased, and we are very greatly interested in reducing it.

"The State Board of Public Affairs induced the College of Agriculture of Wisconsin to detail its head professor of economy to study this question, not as a statistical investigation to determine the extent of the increased cost of living; but to ascertain the causes for this increase, and the wisest and most effective remedy. This investigation covers the production and marketing of cheese, butter and potatoes—the three leading commodities produced in this state. It will soon be ready for publication.

—Energy That Counts.

The friction of men in action is the energy that sends the world spinning. Disagreements are like flint and steel, they strike the new sparks. Contrary opinions fall the chaff out of ideas.—Herbert Kaufman.

A ridge of high barometer stretches across the country from the Atlantic to the Pacific, with centers over the southern Appalachian region and the Great Basin. The barometer is low over Canada and over southwestern Texas. The weather is generally fair except in Florida, where heavy rains are falling. These may be due to the hurricane reported in the press to have passed over Jamaica during the past week. It is colder on the North Pacific slope. Freezing temperatures were reported in western Oregon this morning.

Almost Limit of Foolishness.
An old woman named Czabo, who was found dead in Budapest, left a will in which she set forth that all her money, over $5,000, should be given to her dog. The animal was handed over to the relatives, who, it is said, will contest the will. The old woman had set a room apart for her dog. It was furnished with large mirrors and antique furniture upholstered in silk. Only the dog was allowed to enter this room.

Not Always Easy to Perceive.
A Pennsylvania farmer, over one hundred, declares that to work hard will prevent people from growing old. Work comes as near being the panacea for every ill as human experience can supply, but unluckily it is a blessing in such a deep and dark disguise that very few can recognize it when they meet it.

House Boss in Egypt.
Old Mr. Egyptian carried a stick or a small club about the house with him and laid it upon his women like a thousand of brick whenever they disobeyed or displeased him. In the graves the mummies show that nearly every woman had a forearm fracture. When Mr. Egyptian came home in a bad humor he would sail into her with a stiff stick, and as the arm was thrown to protect the face it was generally broken while warding off the blow.

Remember.
Do you remember, if you lose heart about your work, that none of it is lost; that the good of every good deed remains, and works on forever; and all that falls and is lost is the outside shell of the thing; which, perhaps, might have been better done, but has nothing to do with the real good you have done to men's hearts.—Charles Kingsley.

Killed by Kick of Ostrich.
An ostrich attacked a shepherd of Stolslake, Orange River Colony, a few days ago, and kicked him so severely that he died a few hours later.

Cynical.

DUKE OF CONNAUGHT OPENS PARLIAMENT

Occasion Marked by Usual Ceremonial Session Promises to be Bitter and Contentious.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 21.—The Dominion parliament was opened today by his royal highness, the Duke of Connaught. The occasion was marked by the usual ceremonial, which included the firing of the royal salute from Nepean Point and a cavalry escort for the Governor General from Rideau Hall to the parliament building and return. The general expectation that the speech from the throne would deal with subjects of far more than ordinary interest and importance to the public led to an unusually large attendance of visitors at the opening. Unless all signs go astray the parliamentary session now begun will be one of the most contentious and bitter in many years. There is every reason to believe that the much-discussed naval policy will be one of the first matters brought up. The Government program involves the voting of an immediate "emergency" contribution of large amounts to the British navy, leaving to be negotiated later the terms and conditions of a permanent policy. The Opposition, particularly the French-Canadian element, are preparing to make vigorous protest against imposing a vast naval expenditure on the people without their mandate. The Government, however, fully expects to get its naval program through parliament, but only after a determined opposition.

Other important subjects on the agenda include important amendments to the Bank Act, alterations in the law of naturalization, the West Indian trade agreement, legislation respecting the control of Western lands, the several questions of party policy, including that of the tariff.

The redistribution of parliamentary constituencies made necessary by the last census, which will deprive Conservative Ontario of four seats and will give the Liberal West some twenty odd seats, may be allowed to go over to the next session. A postponement will, of course, precipitate a bitter opposition from the Liberals.

From present indications, there will not be a particularly heavy list of private bills at the present session. An exception, however, is the divorce cases, which number more than 100 and thus exceed all records.

The Regina Pneumatic Sweeper--Model "F"

Simple Practical Efficient Economical

THE REGINA SWEEPER MODEL "F" is strictly a one person machine, as easy to handle as an ordinary carpet sweeper, but vastly more modern and efficient.

Brooms and carpet sweepers remove dirt only from the surface and cannot be used without raising clouds of dust, but the Regina cleans by suction gets not only the surface dirt but also the dust imbedded in the fabric and collects this dust instead of scattering it.

In construction the Regina Model "F" is both simple and substantial. It is used in exactly the same manner as a carpet sweeper. It contains no hose or tubes, and there is nothing to get out of order. The suction is produced by duplex bellows which are actuated by the turning of the rubber tired wheels, and which instantly respond to every movement of the machine in either direction. It sucks up the dust without the slightest wear on the carpet, is always ready for instant use, and does not even require oiling. All you have to do is push it around.

You need the Regina Model "F" for your daily sweeping, and cannot afford to be without it, no matter what other kind of vacuum cleaner you may already have.

ANTIGO AND OSHKOSH PURCHASE WATER PLANTS.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Nov. 21.—The state railroad commission has received a notification from the city of Antigo that the electors had decided by a majority vote to purchase the waterworks from the Antigo Waterworks company. As soon as the proposal has been advertised for the required thirty days, the commission will check up the valuation of the plant. Inasmuch as the Antigo plant was valued by the commission a few years ago, it will take only a few days to complete the work.

The voters of Oshkosh on Nov. 5, decided to purchase the water plant in that city, and as soon as the official notification of this action is received by the railroad commission, the work of valuing the plant will be started. Both the Antigo and Oshkosh plants are owned by W. G. Maxey of Oshkosh.

SUGGESTIONS FOR WEDDING PRESENTS.

TO THE person with a large circle of friends the problem of a wedding present often becomes almost as acute both for the brains and the pocketbook as the what-shall-I-give-for-Christmas puzzle, especially in such popular mating times as these autumn months.

Unfortunately I can't help the pocket-book side of the problem, but I'm going to make bold to offer a few suggestions for the mental part of it. Since the rebirth of the fireplace is an important part of the home, andirons, tongs, bellows, in short anything for the fireplace, is likely to be more than a welcome gift and not a particularly common one.

Good reference books such as a dictionary, an encyclopedia, a thesaurus, a book of classical references or of quotations make wedding gifts for which the recipients will probably be grateful to you every time they consult them.

Pictures are a beautiful gift but a trifle dangerous. However, if you go to a first-class picture store and trust yourself to an intelligent clerk and tell him to pick out something safe, you can't go very far astray. You may not select one of the bride's favorites, but you won't get a picture that will be banished to the store-room and be brought out only for your visit.

Some kind of mirror, a triple toilet mirror, or one of those quaint, old-fashioned gift affairs, makes a very acceptable gift.

I know one bride who exchanged a picture which she disliked for a mirror. "You get tired of the best pictures," her mother said, "but you'll never get tired of that."

Vases appeal to me as an especially attractive gift. If you like something quaint and a bit different, see what the Japanese stores have to offer.

For an inexpensive wedding present I know of nothing that makes a better showing than half a dozen frappe glasses. As all kinds of desserts can be served in them they are extremely useful, and they can be bought for $3 a dozen up. Several brides have told me that they have enjoyed their frappe glasses more than any other gift.

A table mirror for the center of the table is another inexpensive but very acceptable present.

Remember that the value of a gift is practically doubled when it is just what the recipient wants. And if you are sufficiently well acquainted, ask the bride's mother or sisters, or intimate friends, for suggestions.

Don't be afraid to give something that represents labor instead of money. People are doing that more every year. No woman can fail to be delighted with a piece of embroidery; a very pretty shoe case made of cretonne to match her bedroom hangings, pleased one bride as much as anything she had; a silver and gold hair brooch, accompanied by a little note saying "Silver and gold have I none, but such as I have give I unto thee" deeply touched and pleased another bride.

Truly the price tag isn't the only thing about a wedding present that interests the recipient,—critics to the contrary.

any other persons. I have no idea what she thinks of me.

(1) If you feel that you can always be a clean, upright, honest man, and not drag a good woman into the mire, I see no reason why you should not make advances to this girl. Let her decide. The right sort of a girl wants to marry the right sort of a man—one who is manly rather than wealthy and who can make her happy even if he hasn't had a college education.

COMPANY DISHES.

A most appetizing salad is the following: Rub the inside of a salad bowl with a cut clove of garlic. Put into the bowl a half teaspoonful of salt, a few dashes of red pepper and two tablespoonfuls of vinegar. Stir well, then add six tablespoonfuls of olive oil. Beat until thick. Crumble into the dressing enough Roquefort cheese to make a tablespoonful, then pour it over crisp lettuce. Serve very cold.

Baked Eggplant With Cheese.—Cut the egg plant into slices a half-inch thick, and let stand under a weight for an hour or more. Dip the pieces in fine crumbs, then in beaten eggs, then in crumbs and fry in deep fat. Make a white sauce and put the slices of egg plant in a baking dish, alternating with the white sauce and grated cheese. Use plenty of sauce and cover the top with cheese. Bake until brown.

Tomatoes Stuffed With Mushrooms.—Cut the tops from eight tomatoes and remove the seeds and soft part; then allow some of the juice to drain off, and dust the inside with salt and pepper. Add a very little onion juice and mix with the juice of the tomato. Add this juice to half a pound of fresh mushrooms, and cook slowly with a little butter. Season and fill the tomato cups with the mixture. Cover with buttered crumbs and bake.

Fried Cauliflower.—Boil cauliflower until nearly done, then drain. Separate the yolks from the whites of two eggs and mix two tablespoonfuls of flour with a little water and a dash of salt. Beat the whites until stiff and add the yolks and flour. Dip the pieces of cauliflower in the egg mixture and fry in a deep fat, draining when done. Sprinkle with salt and serve hot.

Parsnip Fritters.—These are delicious. Grate enough boiled parsnips to make a pint, add two beaten eggs, a pint of flour and a pint of milk, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and a teaspoonful of salt. Fry in deep fat.

OPINIONS ON TEA AND COFFEE.

Whether tea and coffee are harmful, is discussed in the Medical Times for September by a number of physicians, who differ. Dr. Otto Jettner of Cincinnati, a well known authority, says: "While an occasional indulgence in coffee and tea is not objectionable, the tea and coffee habit is decidedly pathologic. The tea and coffee addict is, to all intents and purposes, a drug fiend, and should be classed with habitués of tobacco, alcohol, opium, and other drug agents." Dr. Joseph M. Allen of Omaha says: "Tea and coffee are not in any sense food, therefore cannot add constructive tissue to our bodies. Any substance that is not wholly a food, or that contains destructive elements, is harmful." Dr. F. H. Barnes of Stamford, Conn., says: "I do not believe tea and coffee are harmful if used in reasonable quantities, although their inordinate use is harmful." Dr. Frederick W. Seward of Goshen, N. Y., says: "Tea and coffee have a pathologic effect as tobacco and alcohol have, though, as we generally use tea and coffee, I believe the harm exerted by them to be almost negative." Dr. J. H. Kellogg says: "Tea and coffee are baneful drugs, and their sale and use ought to be prohibited by law." The last opinion will seem to most readers to be extreme, as suggested by Dr. Barnes, who says that we have too many extremists and alarmists in the medical profession and among the laity, yet I believe that any thoughtful, fair-minded physician will admit that tea and coffee are more or less harmful, according to the degree to which they are indulged in.

Getting the Whip-hand of Adversity

UT into the walls of a cell in the Tower of London the tourist reads: "Men are not killed with the adversities they have to bear, but with the impatience with which they suffer them."

The philosopher who carved this bit of new thought or old truth, whichever you choose to call it, was Charles Bailey, a prisoner in the Tower, and he evolved it several hundred years ago. It means more today to the casual reader than it did then; or rather, the casual reader today looks deeper into it and sees its inner truth more clearly than did the casual reader of Bailey's time, who read only the surface.

For many hundreds of years, we have been reading and looking into such truths but a little way. But now we are searching their utmost depths, and we are bringing up much valuable treasure.

For what this philosopher wrote is worth a long, deep, searching scrutiny.

Can you not see that it is the impatience with which we suffer our adversities that does us the real harm, not the adversities themselves? It is the fret and the worry that tears and rends and breaks down our nervous system, not the actual loss of money, or the burning of our home, or the falsity of our friend.

It is the tears we shed that bring on a headache. It is the despondency we feel that upsets our digestion. And thus, if we would, we could trace nearly all our physical ills to a mental state, instead of to the actual material happening upon which we usually blame them. It is the inner state these adversities set up that does the mischief, not the adversities themselves.

What then are we to do? Some people will say that the two are so inseparably joined that they cannot be given asunder. But are they? Are they not worlds apart?

The inner mental state is you, a spirit, an immaterial, intangible thing, that has the sole control of your body, that has its fingers on all the electric buttons, so to speak, that govern the body's actions.

The adversities are material things that have to do with the material world. They cannot in themselves affect your body. There is no common ground of meeting. The only medium is yourself, this intangible spirit that sits with its fingers on the levers of your physical being.

The thing to do, then, is it not, is to have full control of this self of yours; not to let adversity, in the form of loss of money or friends or health become transmitted into your body as despondency or impatience or discouragement. For these are the things that wear and tear and break the body.

This is hard to do, you say? It is hard to do all at once. But little by little, you can gain this control of yourself, where you can sit clear-eyed and calm, your hands on the levers, quite steady, and see these adversities, like enemies, outside, but unable to gain entrance or to make a single nerve tremble, or a single heart-beat unsteady.

And then, you are able to cope with them most efficiently. You can see better how to retrieve your losses. You are able to look, in a big, broad, charitable way at the delinquencies of a friend. You have the machine with which you work in perfect order for the task ahead.

Mrs. Alice Gitchell Kirk

not try to hurry the process; if you do, you are very apt to have the ice cream grain; or this may come from having interruptions after beginning the freezing. When finished, remove the cream and crossbar. Wipe off the top of the can and remove dasher. Pack the cream down evenly and re-cover, putting a cork in the hole in the cover. Drain off the water from the melted ice and pack unsalted ice all around and over the can. This ice is better coarsely chopped. Cover with papers or a blanket or both.

Wet the blanket and papers with the brine, poured over after finishing the freezing, and it will help very much in saving the ice. In very warm weather, it may be necessary to remove the ice and then add half as much salt as used in the beginning.

There are two different kinds of ice cream: Philadelphia, made from cream, sugar, flavorings, or fruit juices.

Neapolitan cream is made from a custard.

Philadelphia Ice Cream

Cream one quart
Vanilla one tablespoonful
Sugar one cupful (scant)

Directions—Scald half the cream and all the sugar in the double boiler until it looks thin and blue. Remove from the fire and cool. Add the vanilla and the remaining cream, and if thick enough it may be whipped stiff. Freeze as directed. If different fruit flavorings are desired, such as peach, strawberry, etc., these may be added when half frozen.

Neapolitan Ice Cream

Materials—Milk, one pint; cream

one-half pint; sugar, one cup; yolks of eggs, four; vanilla, one tablespoon; salt, one pinch.

Directions—Mix milk and cream and scald in a double boiler. Beat the yolks very light and add the sugar. Pour the scalded liquid from the double boiler slowly over egg mixture, stirring all the while. Return to the boiler and cook. Stir until a slight coating covers the spoon.

Turn into a bowl and when cool add the flavoring and salt. Freeze as directed. The cream in this custard may not be heated with the milk, but beaten stiff and added last if preferred. A great variety of changes may be had from this one recipe, such as adding nuts, candied cherries, figs, chocolate, caramelizing the sugar, or using maple syrup and caramelizing that.

Ices of all kinds should be frozen very slowly. For sherbets, turn the freezer rapidly, and a meringue made from the white of an egg and one tablespoonful of sugar may be added after it is frozen. Prappé is simply partly frozen water. Parfait or mousse is flavored frozen cream. Not by agitating the cream in the freezer, but put into a mold, covered and packed in ice and salt.

Lemon Cream Sherbet.

Materials—Water, one quart; gran. sugar, two cups; cream, two cups; lemon juice, one cup; gelatine, one teaspoonful; vanilla, one teaspoonful; mint leaves.

Directions—Boil the sugar and the water twenty minutes in a saucepan. This gives body to the sherbet, and when exposed to the air will not become watery. Soften the gelatine in a little cold water and dissolve in two tablespoonfuls of boiling water. Strain cool, add the lemon juice. Pack the freezer with three parts ice and one salt. Turn in the mixture and partly freeze. Then add the cream flavored with the vanilla and finish freezing. The dasher is turned rapidly for all sherbets. If desired very light, one or two beaten whites of eggs may be beaten in at the finish. Serve in sherbet cups or glasses and decorate with either fresh or candied mint leaves.

Baked Beans—Boil one pound small beans until slightly tender. Add pinch of soda, stir well and drain. Mix together half cup white sugar, one teaspoon salt and one teaspoon dry mustard. Add this to the beans with a little water. Cut up half pound of salt pork and place it in beans (which should be baked in an earthen vessel until well browned). A slow oven is required. Bacon may be used instead of pork.

Potatoes A La Royal—One pint hot mashed potatoes, generous cup of cream or milk, two tablespoonfuls butter, whites of three eggs, yolks of two, salt and pepper to taste. Beat potatoes very light and fine, add seasoning, milk and butter, then whites beaten to stiff froth. Turn into buttered dish, smooth with knife, brush over with yolk of egg, brown quickly and serve.

Delicious Maple Sugar Rolls—One and one-half cups flour, 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder, two tablespoonfuls butter, three-fourths cup milk, pinch salt. Roll on floured board about one-fourth inch thick, spread thickly with grated maple sugar, roll up like jelly roll, cut in three-fourths inch slices and bake in rather quick oven. Very quickly made and very delicious.

German Apple Pudding—One egg, one cup milk, one tablespoon melted butter, two teaspoonfuls baking powder, two cups flour, salt to taste, one-half cup brown sugar, one teaspoon powdered cinnamon, some quartered apples. Beat eggs, add milk, melted butter, flour, baking powder and salt, stir well and pour into buttered shallow pan. Press into mixture the quartered apples, dust with brown sugar and cinnamon. Bake until apples are tender. Serve with milk or cream.

Sour Milk Cake—Two cups sugar (fine), one cup butter (large), one cup raisins (large), one teaspoon cinnamon, a little nutmeg if liked, two cups sour milk, two level teaspoonfuls soda, 1 1/2 cups flour. Mix in order given. Stir milk and soda together before mixing with the other ingredients. It has to be quite stiff to keep raising from sinking. Bake in two bread pans. Will keep a long time and is very good.

Pimples Removed

The Calcium Sulphide Treatment Does Wonders to Every Kind of Skin Eruption.

You don't want to wait forever and a day to get rid of your pimples or other skin eruptions. You want to get rid of them right now. Next week you may want to go somewhere where you wouldn't like to take the pimples along.

You can get rid of them just in time by taking Stuart's Calcium Wafers.

They contain as their main ingredient the most thorough, quick and effective blood cleanser known, calcium sulphide.

Remember this, too, that most pimple treatments reek with poison. And they are miserably slow besides.

Stuart's Calcium Wafers have not a particle of poison in them. They are free from mercury, biting drugs or venomous ointments. This is absolutely guaranteed. They cannot do any harm, but they always do good—good that you can see in the mirror before your own eyes a few days after.

Don't be any longer humiliated by having a blotchy face. Don't have strangers stare at you, or allow your friends to be ashamed of you because of your face.

Your blood makes you what you are! The men and women who forge ahead are those with pure blood and pure faces.

Stuart's Calcium Wafers will make you happy because your face will be a welcome sight not only to yourself when you look into the glass, but to everybody else who knows you and talks to you.

We know that Stuart's Calcium Wafers are, beyond doubt the best and quickest blood and skin purifier in the world. Try a package today, 50c at your druggists.

"LITTLEST REBEL" CAPTIVATING PLAY

Civil War Drama Surprises Audience With Excellence of Plot, Scenes and Acting.

Rich in surprising turns of plot, realistic background of sound and wholesale sentiment, thrilling action, sight, and superbly acted in all the principal roles, "The Littlest Rebel" delightedly surprised a large audience at the Myers theatre last night, now moving it to the point of tears and then to bursts of applause as pathetic situations alternated with humor and stirring scenes and dialogue.

Not since the days of "Shenandoah," which enjoyed its last revival during the Spanish-American war, has the public been given a Civil war drama that will stand comparison with "The Littlest Rebel." Free from any debate of the issues of the war, spread eagle flights of patriotic speech, or sectional bitterness it is a play that can be produced with equal success north or south and serve to cement any breach in the sympathies still existing between the once divided parts of our country.

With the booming of guns in the distance, the rattle and clatter of muskets and the march of the dust bespattered uniforms of the soldiers, and the smell and smoke of powder the atmosphere of war is made so real that the beholders are brought to a high pitch of excitement.

But this, the background, is not the strongest or most appealing note in the play. It is the story of Virgie, "the littlest rebel," whose father braves capture and death as a spy in order that she might have food other than blackberries and acorn coffee, the manner in which she touches the heart of a union officer and makes him die a martyr's death.

That she and her father might pass through the lines to Richmond; and finally her unconscious testimony that saved the lives of both her father and the officer. Few who witnessed the performance last night ever saw the part of a child so well acted as that of "Virgie" by Viola Savoy. Not once did she lapse from the actions, speech and gesture that characterized the lovable child, and was throughout unaffected and natural.

Marshall Farnum impersonated "Captain Herbert Cary," the confederate scout, in a manner in which it would be difficult to pick a flaw. Judson Langill as "Lieutenant Col. Morrison," represented a type of union officer that embodied the most gentlemanly virtues of lofty and dignified bearing, chivalry, sympathy, and self-sacrifice.

"Mrs. Cary," the brave wife of the confederate scout, played by Helen Scott, had the maternal pride of bearing and tender feelings usually associated with the aristocratic southern woman. Hugh Jeffrey, who took the part of the general, may not have intended to impersonate Grant, but he strongly suggested him, and in speech and posture was faithful to the popular impression of the manners and bearing of a soldier of high station.

These characters, just mentioned, hold the center of the stage, but the minor parts, of which there are a number, were no less effective in their respective parts. Especially worthy of mention are Martin Reagan as "Uncle Billy," "Sergeant Dudley" played by George Drake, and "Corporal Dudley," by J. G. Telfer. The scenery changes for every act and made beautiful and appropriate background for each.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES, SPECTACLES.

(By Howard L. Rann.)

Spectacles are an ornamental attachment to the human face which hook on behind the ears and rest shyly on the bridge of the nose. They are made of window glass, and a person with keen eyesight can see almost as well through them as with the naked eye.

Spectacles are always recommended by some high-priced optician who makes his own glasses and sells them at an altitude of 9,000 feet above sea level. The patient's eyes are leading him into first tested, by a dark room, throwing a blanket over his head and ordering him to read fine print at a distance of 80 rods from the target. If he is unable to do this, the optician discovers at once that he has neurasthenic astigmatism, with symptoms of nostalgia, locomotor ataxia and hay fever. The more symptoms an optician discovers, the more expensive it is to secure a good fit.

Spectacles do not add to the beauty of the face, and are worn mostly by husbands who have no romantic tendency to keep their trousers creased. An industrious pair of spectacles will drive away the headache, an in some cases will impart a look of real intelligence to the features. As an investment for this purpose, however, they are frequently a melancholy failure.

The society brand of spectacles is called nose glasses, but society which have to be replaced about twice a week, as they slide from their perch every little while and have to be caught in a frantic leap with the bare hand. A pair of nose glasses never fall to the ground without breaking both legs.

Some people circumvent the hurdlings nose glass by attaching it to a chain and spring, which interrupt it in the middle of a high dive and thus thwart the local optician, who prescribes a new $10 lens every time a fracture occurs. Other people wear a chain looped over the right ear, which allows the glasses to dangle to and fro and produce a coy effect.

Spectacles should be worn by everybody whose eyes do not track. They are also a fairly good substitute for intellect, and will provide everything but the conversation.

HEADACHY, CONSTIPATED, BILIOUS, TAKE DELICIOUS "SYRUP OF FIGS"

REMOVES THE SCUM FROM THE TONGUE, SWEETENS A SOUR, GASSY, BILIOUS STOMACH CLEANSSES YOUR LIVER AND 30 FEET OF BOWELS WITHGRIPES OR NAUSEA.

If headachy, bilious, dizzy, tongue coated, stomach sour and full of gas, you belch undigested food and feel sick and miserable, it means that your liver is choked with sour bile and your thirty feet of bowels are clogged with effete waste matter not properly carried off. Constipation is worse than most folks believe. It means that this waste matter in the thirty feet of bowels decays into poisons, gases and acids and that these poisons are then sucked into the blood through the very ducts which should suck only nourishment to sustain the body.

Most people dread physic. They think of castor oil, salts and cathartic pills. They shrink from the after-effects—so they postpone the dose until they get sick; then they do this liver and bowel cleansing in a heroic way—they have a bowel washday—That is all wrong. If you will take a teaspoonful of delicious Syrup of Figs tonight, you will never realize you have taken anything until morning, when all the poisonous matter, sour bile and clogged-up waste will be moved on and out of your system, thoroughly but gently—no griping—no nausea—no weakness. Taking Syrup of Figs is a real pleasure. Don't think you are drugging yourself; it is composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics, and constant use can not cause injury.

Ask your druggist for "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," and look for the name, California Fig Syrup Company, on the label. This is the genuine—old reliable. Any other Fig Syrup offered as good should be refused with contempt. Don't be imposed upon.

At The Theatre

"THE RED WIDOW."

It is said that the musical play "The Red Widow" which Raymond Hitchcock will appear in at the Myers Theatre, Sunday evening, Nov. 24, affords the popular comedian more scope for his quaint humor of fun making than any vehicle that he has hitherto been provided with. The book reveals the story of how he was trapped by a beautiful young woman who he befriended by taking her back to Russia, and then becomes involved in all kinds of plots with nihilists and secret police. Complications ensue so rapidly that there's no place here to tell one of the awful things that befall him.

TESS OF STORM COUNTRY

A happy combination of sentiment, humor, and thrilling realism mark the principal features of Jones and Crane's latest offering to the theatre. The story of the life of a young woman, who is a victim of the "Tess of the Storm Country" by Grace Miller White, which book created such an impression in the world of literature. It is brilliantly written and is replete with quaint comedy situations and soul stirring emotions. In presenting it this season with a selected cast, mounted elaborately with scenic and mechanical devices. Messrs. Jones and Crane have exhibited a bit of shrewd business sagacity, for it is one of those plays that appeal to all classes, and is one of the best money making plays they have ever secured, but instead of securing the rights to it for a term of ten years, and those who are familiar with the theatrical business claim it is "one of those plays that will live forever." This will be the Thanksgiving attractions at Myers theatre two performances, matinee and evening.

"A MODERN EVE."

Heralded as the greatest musical success of the decade, and boasting of the most prosperous summer witnessed in Chicago in years, "A Modern Eve" announced as the attraction at the Myers Theatre, Wednesday evening, November 27, promises to be an event of more than usual interest to music lovers. Chicagoans have been revelling in its swinging music all summer, and is still loath to permit the Berlin Operetta to depart to other triumphs. "A Modern Eve" was first staged at the Neuses Theatre, Berlin, two years ago, and is still running there. Its success was immediate and emphatic, and it speedily became the talk of Berlin. Mort H. Singer, who was visiting the German capital last fall, was greatly impressed with the popularity of the music in the various Berlin cafes. Assuring himself of the libretto's adaptability for the American stage, he secured exclusive rights to it on this side of the Atlantic. Victor Holtzender, who wrote most of the music score, is ranked as the best composer of light music in Germany, and his collaborator, Jenn Gilbert, a young man, is distinguished as the author of "The Polish Wedding" which ran for two years in Berlin. Among the songs hits are the alluring "Good-bye Everybody," "You're Such a Lonesome Moon," "Rita, My Margarita," "Every Day is Christmas When You're Married," "Won't You Smile," "Excuse Me! Certainly! Hello, Sweetheart!" and "Is the Girl You Married the Girl You Love?"

INVITED TO DINNER THEN ASKED TO PAY

Misunderstanding on Part of County Clerk Lee Costs Each of County Supervisors "Two Bits."

"Resolved by the board of supervisors of Rock county that the county treasurer shall be and is hereby instructed to retain from the salary of the county clerk for the ensuing month, the sum of $10 to pay for the dinners of the board members at the Hotel London on Tuesday." This was the resolution introduced by Supervisor C. E. Moore at the meeting of the county board yesterday morning and declared out of order by Chairman Gray.

The "joke was on the county clerk," but the "laugh was also on the members of the board." The county supervisors took their dinners at the Hotel London Tuesday noon on invitation extended by Mr. Lee on behalf of the proprietor according to the general understanding. The board members have been entertained at dinner on several occasions during the present session and they responded to this last invitation almost to a man.

The management of the hotel was extremely gratified to see the board members respond to their invitation, but Mrs. Gentle, who was at the cashier's desk, was dumfounded beyond the ability to protest, when the first of the supervisors to finish their meal stepped to the desk and thanked her for the hospitality extended, then boldly walked out without offer of payment.

Fully a dozen prominent citizens of the county, including several well-known Janesville men, had walked out of the hotel without making a settlement, when Mrs. Gentle became alarmed and hastily summoned Mr. Lee and asked an explanation. Mr. Lee was embarrassed but assured Mrs. Gentle it was all a mistake. He had made the announcement to the board and had understood that the dinner was to be gratuitous. He promised, however, to see that the rest of the men paid up and he volunteered to reimburse the hotel management for the members who had left without paying. He was handed a slip with the names of those who had "escaped."

The rest of the board members walked to the front and paid their "two bits," but not without jovial remembrance at the expense of Mr. Lee. Some of the men threatened then and there that they would make him pay for the dinner and the resolution as introduced yesterday was a means to that end. Mr. Lee offered to second the motion himself. Some one asked if he had any further invitations to extend and the incident was officially closed when Chairman Gray rapped for "order." The incident was closed only officially, however, for the supervisors predict that the county clerk will never hear the last of his invitation to entertain the board and then making them "pay."

MUCH HOG CHOLERA REPORTED IN STATE

Disease Rages in Many Localities Causing Heavy Demand For Anti-Serum Says Dr.
Hadley.

There is more hog cholera in the state of Wisconsin than there has been for years. This declaration made by Dr. F. B. Hadley, the Wisconsin College of Agriculture, today, is predicted on reports received from all sections of the state. Last May the college began to manufacture anti-serum for the prevention of hog cholera. The demand now far exceeds the supply. A map of Wisconsin upon which are designated the hog cholera outbreaks, hanging at the animal husbandry building at the university, shows the disease is prevalent in over half the counties, and no large portion of the state is immune. The worst outbreak is in Dane county. "There is no danger to humans from this disease," said Dr. Hadley. "In my experience as a United States government official inspecting cholera, I cannot say that I have known of a single case where a human being has been affected. The disease is so prevalent that we have one field man at work and we should have more."

Dr. Hadley said that the disease could be prevented but that cholera cannot be cured after the hog has become seriously ill. Hogs are made immune from the disease by injection of an anti-serum composed of the blood of healthy pigs which have been through a siege of the cholera. This blood is obtained by cutting off the end of the pig's tail until by successive bleeding no more of the tail remains. The pig is then killed to get the last ounce of blood. Enough blood can be obtained from a pig to treat about 400 hogs that weigh less than 100 pounds each. At the regular commercial rate for anti-serum, enough blood from a pig can be sold to realize $250.

"Among the things first noted in an outbreak of hog cholera is the refusal of feed by a number of hogs," said Dr. Hadley. "They have chills and are depressed, stiff and sore in the bedding. A short, hacking cough will frequently be noted. In most cases hog cholera runs a rapid course, ending in death in about two weeks after exposure."

Instant Relief from Eczema

You can stop that awful itch from eczema and other skin troubles in two seconds. Seems too good to be true—but it is true, and we vouch for it. Just a few drops of the simple, cooling, soothing D.D.D. Prescription for Eczema, and the itch stops instantly. We give you a trial bottle—enough to prove it—for 25 cents.

J. P. BAKER & SON, Janesville, Wis.

Now if you have tried a great many cures for eczema and have been disappointed, do not make the mistake of refusing to try this soothing wash. All other druggists keep this D.D.D. Prescription—so to them if you can't come to us—but if you come to our store, we will give you the first dollar bottle on our positive no pay guarantee, that D.D.D. will stop the itch at once.

Dinner Stories

It was a Welsh minister who described the devil to a little congregation in a remote Welsh valley. Said the minister:

"The devil is bound round the middle with chains, and round the arms with chains, and round the legs with chains. But John Jones," pointing to a man in the front row, "he can reach you; and David Evans," pointing to one in the middle row, "he can reach you; and," pointing to one at the back, "John Williams, he can reach you."

And then a man in the gallery called out, "Why he might as well be loose."

Read it on the train where people can see you and laugh heartily every few minutes.

The book was accepted, but a few days later the author received this telegram: "Return book herewith. Don't want it on terms quoted."

Roy McCordell, the humorist, went abroad last summer. On the way across he grew quite chummy with Louis Tracy, the English novelist who was returning home after a visit to America.

One morning in the smoking room Tracy passed and bowed to McCordell. A serious looking Englishman witnessed this exchange of greetings and, after thinking the thing over for a time, approached McCordell.

"I beg your pardon," he said, "but you seem to know that person who just passed. He and I are sharing the same stateroom, and this morning he got up first and by mistake put on my boots. He's wearing them now. Do you know him?" "Yes," said McCordell. "That's Louis Tracy."

"Tracy, the novelist?" said the Englishman. "I admire his works immensely. I wonder now if I might meet him."

Dangerous
Drugs.

CURES COLDS

The mother of a family of seven children, Mrs. G. Justus, of Jersey City, says she gives Father John's Medicine to all of them when they are run down in health or have a cold or cough. The picture shows Mrs. Justus and her children. In her letter she also says: "About five years ago I was taken with a very severe cough and was just about giving up hope of ever recovering, when a friend told me about Father John's Medicine. I tried it and I felt better at once. My husband has had colds on his chest, and whenever one of these comes on he always takes Father John's Medicine. We always recommend it to everybody." (Signed) Mr. and Mrs. G. Justus and family of seven children.

Remember that Father John's Medicine cures colds and all throat and lung troubles, because it gives the weakened system strength to ward off disease. It is a pure food medicine, free from alcohol and dangerous drugs. Get it today.

If you have any difficulty in getting Father John's Medicine from your druggist write to Father John's Medicine, Lowell, Mass., enclosing $1.00 for a large bottle by express prepaid.

YOU are money ahead when you can buy fuel that analyzes 98 per cent pure and only 1 per cent ash. That is what Petroleum Carbon is and it is only $9.00 per ton, less than hard coal and much larger bulk. Can be used for any purpose.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, Nov. 21, 1872.—The Baptist Gathering: The New England gathering given by the ladies of the Baptist society was so complete a success that they are quite bewildered at the amount of "scrip" which found its way into the treasury from the sale of tickets and supper. An old-fashioned New England supper was served and an entertainment followed. Rev. Dr. Whiting and Hon. H. A. Patterson addressed some pleasant remarks to the audience, and at the conclusion of the rostrum exercises, Smith, opposite the postoffice, made a speech in which he was careful to confine himself to the statement that supper was awaiting in an adjoining room. The New England kitchen, with its ancient furniture, strips of dried pumpkin on a string, spinning wheel and fireplace was one of the attractive features of the entertainment. Brief Items: The price of coal went up two dollars a ton today. Those who have commenced stripping their tobacco report the quality excellent. Owners of horses afflicted with epizootic, who persist in working the brutes, should be compelled by the authorities to cease the inhuman practice. Give the horses rest and they will recover from the disease.

UNCLE WALT The Poet Philosopher

Copyright, 1909, by George Matthew Adams
BY WALT MASON

The country's full of also rans, who tell why they got left; the Peepul queered their little plans, and now they stand bereft. The little snaps for which they yearned don't come their way at all; the sacred Peepul rose and turned their pictures, to the wall. The holy Peepul, standing pat-a-halo o'er all their aspirations, said to all their aspirations, "Scat!" and so they're frequent now. They're well supplied with lids and cans and they have soup to burn; but will the tireless also rans a useful lesson learn? Will they emerge from mire and muck, the debris of defeat, and bravely say: "We'll go to work, and earn our bread and meat?" Will they forsake the idle course of all the statesmen crew, who rant and howl till they are hoarse and nothing useful do? Will they upon the farm abide and labor as they should, and let the sacred Peepul slide while they are sawing wood? You little know the also rans if you are dreaming thus; already they are forming plans for stirring up a fuss. Again they'll soon be waving flags and toiling with their jaws distributing the same old gags about the Peepul's cause. The drunkard who for years with gin has played out tank has warmed, may by the doos be gathered in and by their skill reformed; the dope fiend, when the doctors try becomes a useful man; but all the doos beneath the sky can't cure an also ran.

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY.
Good fortune awaits you. Your natural love of the beautiful will be gratified in various ways and some of your dearest wishes will be fulfilled. Those born today will be clever and especially gifted with perseverance. They will also have too much prejudice and passion, but the chances are that they will soon learn of their dangers.

THE DAILY NOVELETTE

The Brute.
"Oh, a car was clanging down the street.
An auto honking up;
There were carriages, cabs and handsome fleet;
Ah, Maud! Who killed the pup?"
"John," his wife whispered, and stopped. He could hear the grandfather's clock move its hands restlessly.
"What is it, dear?" he asked, his face white as his teeth.
"She—she is here again." Her voice broke, but not beyond repair. "Not at the door?"

"Yes. But go to her, dear. I understand."
He went to the door. She was standing there, confident, he thought bitterly, that he would come to her. "Rose," he said, falteringly, "why did you come back?"
She looked up in his face with a sneer.
Stiffing an oath, he kicked the darn dog into the street.

Danger Sign in Horse.
The appearance of "white" in the eye of a horse indicates a vicious nature, because a high tempered horse constantly looks about, apprehensive of danger, or desiring to do mischief. The quick motion of the eyeball in opposite directions exposes an unusually large surface of the white, which thus becomes an evidence of the temper of the animal.

IT'S RISKY

IT'S A BIG RISK to hold an auction sale unless it is well advertised. You put up $2000 worth of property for sale; maybe it will bring $2000; maybe $1500; maybe less.
It's up to you.
It all depends upon how well you advertise it. One that is thoroughly advertised cannot help but be a success. Almost every sale that is advertised in the Gazette brings more than the proprietor expected.
You can save a few dollars by trying to get along with a few bills or running a small ad, but how about results? Will you find that you have saved anything when you count your money at the close of the sale?
Dare you take chances on $2000 worth of property to save a few dollars at the outset?

THE REASON

Reggy—Why do you dislike cigarettes?
Kitty—Because they are dangerous.
Reggy—But I have smoked them for ten years and they haven't killed me yet.
Kitty—Yes, I know; and that's one reason I object to them.

FREE ADVICE TO SICK WOMEN

Thousands Have Been Helped
By Common Sense
Suggestions.

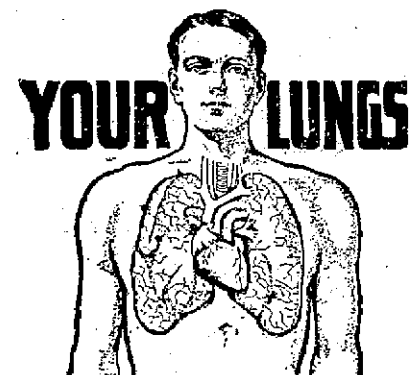

Women suffering from any form of female ills are invited to communicate promptly with the woman's private correspondence department of the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence. A woman can freely talk of her private illness to a woman; thus has been established a confidential correspondence which has extended over many years and which has never been broken. Never have they published a testimonial or used a letter without the written consent of the writer, and never has the Company allowed these confidential letters to get out of their possession, as the hundreds of thousands of them in their files will attest.

Out of the vast volume of experience which they have to draw from, it is more than possible that they possess the very knowledge needed in your case. Nothing is asked in return except your good will, and their advice has helped thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, should be glad to take advantage of this generous offer of assistance. Address Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (confidential) Lynn, Mass.

Every woman ought to have Lydia E. Pinkham's 80-page Text Book. It is not a book for general distribution, as it is too expensive. It is free and only obtainable by mail. Write for it today.

Easily Made Coathangers.
A coathanger may be improvised from a newspaper in the following manner: Fold a newspaper through the center and continue folding or rolling it until it is a compact piece about three inches wide. Bend it downward in the middle and tie with a cord, forming a loop. It will answer the same purpose as a hanger of wood or metal and requires only a few minutes to make.

The Merry Advertiser.
Who says there is no more any genuine English humor? A provision dealer in Earl's court neighborhood, London, displays this on a window sign: "When visiting Shakespeare's England, eat England's Bacon."

ARE THEY WEAK OR PAINFUL?
Do your lungs ever bleed?
Do you have night sweats?
Have you pains in chest and sides?
Do you spit yellow and black matter?
Are you continually hacking and coughing?
Do you have pains under your shoulder blades?
These are Regarded Symptoms of Lung Trouble and CONSUMPTION

You should take immediate steps to check the progress of these symptoms. The longer you allow them to advance and develop, the more deep seated and serious your condition becomes.
We Stand Ready to Prove to You absolutely, that Lung Germs, the German Treatment, has cured completely and permanently cases of Consumption (Tuberculosis), Chronic Bronchitis, Catarrh of the Lungs, Croup of the Bronchial Tubes and other Lung troubles. Many sufferers who had lost all hope and who had been given up by physicians have been permanently cured by Lung Germs. It is not only a cure for Consumption, but a preventative. If your lungs are merely weak and the disease has not yet manifested itself, you can prevent its development, you can build up your lungs and system to their normal strength and capacity. Lung Germs has cured advanced Consumption, in many cases over five years ago and the patients remain strong and in splendid health today.
Let Us Send You the Proof—Proof that will Convince any Judge or Jury on Earth
We will gladly send you the proof of many remarkable cures, also a FREE TRIAL of Lung Germs together with our new German book on Lung trouble, treatment and cure of Consumption and Lung troubles. JUST SEND YOUR NAME

The Lady of the Mount

by FREDERIC S. ISNAM
AUTHOR OF "THE STROLLERS," "UNDER THE ROSE," "ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY WATERS"
CHAPTER XXXIV.

Some Time Later.
The little Norman Isle, home of Pierre Laroche, so wild and bleak-looking many months of the year, resembles a flowering garden in the spring; then, its lap full of buds and blossoms, smiling, redolent, it lifts itself from the broad bosom of the deep. And all the light embellishments of the golden time it sets forth daintily; fringing the black cliffs with clusters of sea campion, white and frothy as the spray, trailing green ivy from precipitous heights to the verge of the wooing waters, whose waves seem to creep up thither, peep into the many caves, bright with sea-anemones, and retreat quickly, as awed by a sudden glimpse of fairyland.

Near the entrance of one of these magical chambers, abloom with strange, scentless flowers, sat, a certain afternoon in April, a man and a woman, who, looking out over the blue sea, conversed in desultory fashion.

"From what your father tells me, Mistress Nanette," the man, an aged priest, was speaking, "the Seigneur Desaurac should be here today?"

"My father had a letter from him a few days ago to that effect," answered the young woman somewhat shortly.

"Let me see," apparently the old man did not notice the change in his companion's manner, "he has been away how about a year? It was in July he brought the Governor's daughter to the island one day and called her the next!"

"How time flies!" he sighed. "Let us hope it assuages grief, as they say! You think she is contented here?"

"The Lady Elise? Why not? At least, she seems so; has with her, her old nurse, my aunt, who fortunately escaped from the Mount."

"But the death of her father? It must have been a terrible blow—one not easy to forget!"

"Of course," said Nanette slowly, "she has felt his loss."

The old man gazed down. "I have sometimes wondered what she knows about the causes of the enmity that existed between his Excellency and the Black Seigneur?"

"The other's eyes lifted keenly. "When last did you see her, Father?"

"She comes often to my cottage to walk and—"

"Talk?"

"Well, yes!" The fine, spiritual face expressed a twinge of uneasiness.

"About the past?"

The priest shifted slightly. "Sometimes! An old man lives much in the past and it is natural to wander on a bit aimlessly at times, and—"

"Confess, Father, she has learned much from you?" Nanette laughed.

"No, no; I trust—"

"Surmised, then," said the girl. "She is one not easily deceived. Clever is my lady! And you talk, she says nothing, but leads you on! If there's aught she wishes to learn that you know, be assured she's found out from your lips."

"Nay, I'll not believe 'tis true once or twice I've let a word slip. But she noticed none."

"No doubt!" The island girl's voice expressed a fine scorn. "However, it matters little. Speaks she ever of the Black Seigneur?" suddenly.

"No, why?"

"Why not?" Nanette's tone was enigmatical.

"I don't understand."

"At any rate, she is better off here than yonder in France, if tidings be true," said the other irrelevantly.

"Ah, ma belle France!" murmured the old man regretfully. "How she is torn within—threatened from without! But fortunately she has her defenders, his voice thrilled, "brave men who have thronged to her needs. I suppose," he continued abruptly, "it's to arrange about the new ship that brings the Seigneur once more to the island?"

"I suppose so," assented the other briefly.

"A true Frenchman, Pierre Laroche, your father, has shown himself, in giving one of his best ships to the cause!

Although perhaps he would not have been so ready," thoughtfully, "had not the Paris Assembly seen fit to appoint Andre Desaurac in command of all the vessels to guard the coast against the intrigues of the French royalists with foreign powers and allies! Well, well, he will find here many old friends!"

"Yourself, for example, Father, who helped him in the courts to establish his right to his name," said the young woman quickly.

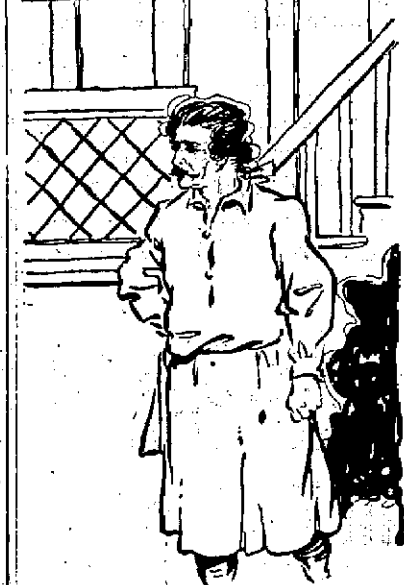

"And you, Mistress Nanette," the kindly eyes lighting with a curious, indulgent look, "who went to the Mount alone, unaided, to—"

A frown gathered on the dark, handsome face of the girl. "Unaided?" she said, staring at the sparkles on the waves before her.

"Oh, the people never weary of talking about it! And how you—"

"You're a sail!" Abruptly the young woman rose; with skirts fluttering behind her, gazed out to sea.

Several hours later, just before dusk, a ship ran into the harbor, dropped anchor, and sent a boat to the shore. In the small craft sat a number of men, and the first of these to spring to the beach and mount the stone stairway to the inn, was met at the top; warmly greeted, by old Pierre himself! Mon dieu! To see the newcomer was like old times! Only now, the landlord observed jestingly, the profits would be small! But a fig to parsimony, in these days when men's patriotism should be large; do what he, the Black Seigneur, would with the new ship, even if he sunk her, provided it was in good company, and he went down with her himself! To which protestations the other answered; presented his companions, and greeted the assembled company within.

Busy at a great board, laden with comestibles interspersed with flagons of wines, Nanette welcomed him briefly, and again his glance—keen and assured, that of a man the horizon of whose vision had widened, since last he stood there—swept the gathering. But apparently, one he looked for was not present, and he had again turned to the young woman, a question on his lips, when on the garden side of the house a door opened. It revealed a flowering background, a plateau, yellow in the last rays of the sun; it framed, also, the slender, black-clad figure of a girl, above whose white brow the waving hair shone like threads of gold.

"An old friend of yours, my Lady!" called out blunt Pierre.

A moment the clear, brown eyes seemed to waver; then became steady, as schooled to some purpose. She came forward composedly; gave the Black Seigneur her hand.

"I am always glad to see old friends!" said my lady, with a lift of the head, over-conscious, perhaps, of the concentrated gaze of the company.

He looked at her; made perfunctory answer; she seemed about to speak again, when the hand he let fall was caught by another.

"Elise!" From among those who had come ashore, a man in fashionable attire sprang forward, a little thinner than when last she had seen him, and more cynical-looking, as slightly soured by world-contact and the new tendencies of society.

"My Lord!" Certainly was my lady taken unawares; a moment looked at the Marquis as if a little startled; then at the Black Seigneur:

"A pleasant surprise for you, my Lady!" said the latter. "But you owe me no thanks! An order from the chief of the Admiralty, properly signed and countersigned, directing me to transport the Marquis de Beauvilliers hither, was not to be disregarded!"

"A somewhat singular dispensation of Providence, nevertheless!" observed the nobleman dryly. "After our—what shall we call it?—little passage of arms? You must acknowledge, however, that if truth the Lady Elise and myself had some reason to discredit your assurances that night—"

"Far be it from me to dispute it, my Lord," and the Black Seigneur turned, while the Marquis, slightly shrugging his shoulders, addressed my lady.

Half-bitterly, then half bitterly, replying occasionally from the old, debonair manner he had assumed, he spoke of his escape from the Mount; months of hiding in foul places, amid fields and forest, with no word of her, his success, at last, in reaching Paris, and, through rumor, learning where she was, and hastening to her—

A bluff voice interrupted further explanations, and avowals; "the steaming flesh-pots, it informed the company, awaited not soft words and honeyed phrases; monarch in his own dining-room, ostentatiously conscious, perhaps, of his own unwonted prodigality, Pierre Laroche waved them to their places—where they would!—so that they waited not!"

Quickly my lord lifted his brow; truly, here was a Republican fellow who appreciated not an honor when it was bestowed upon him, nor saw anything unusual in a Marquis' presence beneath that humble roof. Something of this he murmured to my lady, in a tone others might have heard; but she answered not; took her place, with red lips the firmer, as if to conceal some weakness to which they sought to give way.

Not without constraint the meal passed; the host, desirous to learn the latest political news, looked at the Marquis and curbed a natural curiosity, until a more favorable moment when he and the Black Seigneur should be alone. My lady, although generally made to feel welcome and at home there, seemed now, perhaps, to herself, a little out of place, like a person that has wandered from a world of her own and strayed into another's. Cross-currents, long at strife in her breast, surged and flowed fast; the while she seemed to listen to my lord, who appeared now in lighter, more airy humor. And as she sat thus, with fair head bent a little, she could but hear, at times, above the medley of tones and the sound of servants' footsteps in clattering wooden shoes, the voice of the Black Seigneur—now pledging a toast to old Pierre; anon discussing winds, tides, or ships! A free reckless voice, that seemed to vibrate from the past—to stir anew bright, terrible flames.

Daylight slowly waned; lights were brought in, and, the meal over, old Pierre pushed back in his chair. My lady rose quickly; looked a little constrainedly at the company, at the Marquis, then toward the door. Anticipating her desire, attributing to it, perhaps, a significance flattering to his vanity, the young nobleman expressed a wish for a stroll; a sight of the garden. At once she assented; a slight tint now on her cheeks, she moved to the door, and my lord followed; as they disappeared, the Black Seigneur laughed—at one of Pierre's jokes!

"Well, a good jest, like an excellent dish, may well be served twice."

"Humph!" observed the landlord doubtfully. After a pause: "I suppose he will be taking her away soon?"

"Her?" The young man rose.

"The Lady Elise!"

"I suppose so," shortly.

"We shall miss her!" grumbled the landlord as he, too, got up and walked over to the fireplace. "I, who never thought to care for any of the fine folk—I, bluff old Pierre Laroche!—say we shall miss her."

"Knows she how it fared with his Excellency's—her father's—estate? That little, or nothing, is left?"

"Aye."

"And she will agree to the promise I wrote you about?" quickly.

"That you—now that the right to your name has been vindicated—are content to accept half the lands in dispute; her ladyship to retain the other half?"

"Yes; in consideration of that which his Excellency expended in taxes—no small sum!—and what it would cost to carry on vexatious litigation!"

FOLK MENTIONED FOR CABINET JOB

Joseph W. Folk.

That former governor Joseph W. Folk, of Missouri, may again enter public life as a member of the Wilson cabinet is the opinion of those close to Gov. Wilson. Folk is known to be a man after Gov. Wilson's heart. Then, too, he hails from St. Louis and is one of the strongest Democrats in his section of the country. Cabinet jobs are generally distributed geographically, and it would be quite logical to select one cabinet member from the Missouri metropolis.

Rip-p-p-p-p! Out Come Thousands of Dress Shields!

No More Excessive and Unnatural Arm-Pit Perspiration or Odor.

Get a box of PERSPINO right away (a free powder and in each box) and get the surprise of your life. It means goodbye to that excessive and unnatural perspiration, wherever it may be, that makes you feel miserable; goodbye to stained, faded, stiffened, ruined dresses and waists.

PERSPINO keeps the arm pits just as fresh, natural and dry as the back of your hand. No more rolling up of dress shields like ropes under the arms. It means the age of dress shields is gone.

As a remover of perspiration odors and a body sweetener, there is nothing like it. Not a sticky, greasy cream! It's a powder. Use it in summer when it's hot, or in winter when your clothing is heavy. It's a marvel.
